Chamber 'Neutral' on Airport Issue, President Says

Happy, Healthy at 89

—Mercury Staff Photo

Having been reared on a farm, John S. Latshaw finds it still simple enough to hoe a straight line, even when nearing 89. Latshaw, 621 North Evans street, will celebrate his birthday tomorrow. Farm work always kept him close to home and today he can't understand why youngsters seek excitement away from their families.

Man, 89, Observes

Key to Happiness Is Found Near Home

John B. Latshaw will be 89 tomorrow. He lives at 621 North Evans street and has never been farther from Pottstown than Atlantic City, N.J.

"But I've been to that New Jersey resort twice," declared Latshaw, 621 North Evans street.

The reason for his constrained travel were "being tied down to a farm in Congo when a boy and not caring much for autos when a man," he explained.

Latshaw today enjoys "a spirited game" of checkers, an occasional beer and puttering amid the onions, cabbages and tomatoes in his backyard. Just yesterday he planted corn.

IN ALL HIS life, Latshaw never smoked or had a drink stronger than beer. He attributes the secret of health, however, to "getting up everyday at 5:30 a. m. and never filling my stomach to the top."

It's been seven years since Latshaw was sick. He also stoutly declares he is so hale and hearty that regular examinations by a doctor "just aren't needed and I know I'll live to 100." His late father, Jacob, lived to 92.

Latshaw works until noon each day as a clerk in a grocery founded by his late brother, Harrison. The Latshaw store at Charlotte and Oak streets has been a Pottstown landmark nearly 50 years.

Weatherman Again Predicts Nice Day Today

The weatherman bowed his head in shame—or to get out of the rain—early Wednesday evening when it rained instead of clearing as he predicted.

But, scratching his head, crossing his fingers, and reading his meterological devices, he again says, "Mostly sunny today and tomorrow, with no rain until the weekend."

The weather-guesser's batting average, low the past week and a half, started to perk up the middle of the morning when it cleared up briefly after a cloudy, chilly dawn.

But the sunshine was but a transient delight, and it grew black as the ace of spades around noon. It stayed gloomy until late afternoon, when he

ELECTRONIC GATE SOUGHT BY RAILROAD

Reading Company To 'Sound Out' Borough

CITES SAFETY FACTOR AT HANOVER CROSSING

Pottstown will be asked to approve an automatic gate to guard railroad tracks on South Hanover street.

A Reading railroad spokesman on Wednesday said, "borough government and civic leaders will be sounded out on the matter as soon as possible."

The Reading company tried to install an electronic gate in 1956. It found opposition to the device in borough council, Parent Teacher associations and Goodwill Fire company.

Protests centered around an alleged lack of safety in automatic gates and the fact that the flow of traffic would be impaired.

COUNCIL REJECTED the idea of installing gates that cost up to $40,000. The Reading company acquiesced and withdrew its petition to the Public Utilities commission.

A railroad official said the matter will be brought up now for several reasons. First, he said objections by Goodwill Fire company no longer are valid since that organization moved from South Hanover street.

Secondly, it was believed that the Route 100 bypass would greatly reduce traffic on South Hanover street. But South Hanover street still is heavily traveled and still needs an automatic gate, said the railroad official.

As for safety, the spokesman declared, "Electronic gates are about the most common safety improvement in American railroading.

"Thousands are in operation throughout the country and their safety record is outstanding. But there is much misunderstanding about the automatic gates.

The system is foolproff. The gates run on regular electricity, but if that fails batteries supply power. If the batteries fail, the gates automatically shut," he explained.

HE CONTINUED that flashing lights warn motorists when the gate is about to close and the gate is down for a minimum time.

"The time limit is automatically set by the length and speed

Douglassville Toll To Be Eliminated

The public Utility commission Wednesday authorized the Bell Telephone company to drop Saturday a 15 cent toll from Pottstown to the newly designated Douglassville exchange of the Conestoga Telephone and Telegraph company, Birdsboro.

Bell said elimination of the toll would save Pottstown subscribers an estimated $5000 yearly. Conestoga estimated the saving for Douglassville phone users at $6300 annually.

Monthly local service rates of Bell's 11,500 Pottstown subscribers remain unchanged.

COMPETITION ASKED FOR MILK PRICES

Cafeteria Manager Of Schools Gives Figures

Two school districts asked the Pennsylvania Milk Control commission Wednesday for exemption from the commission-set minimum and permission to institute competitive bidding on the sale of milk.

Both Upper Darby and Abington township told the commission that they could save two cents on each half pint. The saving, the districts said, would be passed on to the pupils.

Representatives of the school districts said they pay 7.1 cents for each half-pint container, and that they are reimbursed 3.1 cents for each half-pint under the Federal milk subsidy program.

The pupils, the representatives reported, pay five cents

Flood of '42

Drouth-Breaking Rain First Welcomed Then Feared as 'Wet Terror'

The rains started May 19, 1942, a welcome relief from the drouth that had gripped the area for weeks.

It gave no hint on that Wednesday that it would leave in its wake five days later two dead, scores of homeless and thousands of dollars worth of damage.

The rain continued through Thursday, Friday and Saturday, pushing the Schuylkill river closer and closer to the flood stage.

Early Sunday morning, as the rain continued, the river hit 20 feet, sending water cascading into the Keim street area near the U. S. Axle company plant.

By that evening, the rain halted, leaving behind it the worst natural disaster in Pottstown's history.

LESTER CHRISTMAN, 193 East Main street, South Pottstown, remembers the flood vividly. He and his brother, William, operators of a garage at 202 South Hanover street, had four feet of water at their front and rear doors.

"We spent the entire day ferrying people from the lower areas to the safer high grounds away from the river," he recalled Wednesday. "It was the worst flood I've ever seen."

In the midst of World War II, the community, through Civilian Defense agencies, Boy Scouts and the Red Cross, was better able to meet the emergency than they would have been in peace time.

Aided by a 35-man Coast Guard unit from Philadelphia, local people went to work setting up emergency evacuation areas, patrolling the areas, and protecting lives and properties.

The only Pottstown resident to die in the flood was Mrs. Ella Halteman, 69, of 11 Walnut street. She was burned to death when she knocked over a small stove while removing household goods from the flooded basement of her home, and her clothes caught fire.

Her daughter, Lottie, was severely burned while attempting to beat out the flames with her bare hands. She was carried to a waiting ambulance a few blocks from the flooded area, and taken to the hospital. Mrs. Halteman was not removed from the flooded home for several hours.

DR. H. W. HASSEL, Bridgeport State health director for Montgomery county, died Sunday afternoon after touring the flooded areas of the county. His death was attributed to the strain of the around-the-clock rescue work that had begun as the river began reaching towards flood stage Friday.

Throughout Eastern Pennsylvania, 40 persons died as a result of the flood.

Heroism became common place during the flood.

J. J. Boyle, North Coventry township policeman, jumped into the swirling waters that swept through the township to prevent a Coast Guard boat from being swept into the raging river.

He was rescued by the Coast Guard, and then watched from a high spot as two Coast Guardsmen were rescued from the river after falling from a temporary pier.

Man Imprisoned In Mine Shaft Shrugs 'It Was Cold Down There'

For a man who took a 25-foot spill into an abandoned mine shaft, Michael Dreher takes a pretty calm view of the incident.

Dreher, of Macungie Route 1, had only one complaint after neighbors hauled him up from his 5½-hour prison—"it was cold down there."

Dreher, about 40, is a former Boyertown RD 1 tenant farmer who now lives on the Hunter Forde farm in Macungie Route 1, but works in Allentown.

The mine shaft has been abandoned since iron miners gave it up about 75 years ago. Since then it has served as a

Rohrbach's Testimony Was 'Personal Opinion'

Raymond Elliott Issues Statement Clarifying Position of C of C

The Chamber of Commerce is neutral on the Pottstown Municipal airport controversy, president Raymond S. Elliott said Wednesday.

In a statement prepared for The Mercury, Elliott said any testimony made by Dr. Grant J. Rohrbach at hearings in Harrisburg Tuesday was merely Dr. Rohrbach's personal opinions.

Dr. Rohrbach spoke at length before two Federal Aviation agency examiners, staunchly opposing any further monetary aid to the borough's airport facilities until the Stowe field is proven to be the best in the area.

Elliott said many other Chamber members, like Dr. Rohrbach, testified both for and against the Municipal airport, but all of them were on their own.

DR. ROHRBACH told the Chamber board of directors Wednesday that he testified as an individual and didn't intend to leave any impression he spoke for the Chamber, or the Minute Men, of which he is chairman.

The pro and con testimony gathered Tuesday by FAA examiners is now being compiled into transcripts, which, with more than 50 exhibits, will be reviewed so a recommendation can be made to the FAA administrator.

The administrator will confirm or withdraw a $96,121 grant to Pottstown to help finance airport improvements including a 2700 foot long landing strip and field lighting.

Rohrbach, who spent about an hour of the eight and a half hour hearing testifying against the Stowe site, admitted a 1957 Chamber offer to

There will be 60 students in the school next September. The Freshman class of 28 also will be the largest group of first year girls in the nursing school's history.

COMMISSION WILL SEEK POLICE CHIEF

West Pottsgrove Post To Be Advertised Tomorrow

The West Pottsgrove commissioners will start advertising tomorrow for a full time patrolman to succeed James V. Guadagno, who was fired as the township's police chief April 30.

That was disclosed Wednesday night by Elmer Hampton, president of the township commissioners.

Hampton said the commissioners still must decide on what qualifications candidates must show. What salary will be offered must also be determined.

Guadagno was making $4000 yearly as police chief.

Meanwhile, the township's police protection is coming from State troopers at the Jeffersonville barracks.

Hampton and Mrs. Arline Yost, the commission secretary, said Guadagno has so far failed to answer written charges filed against him May 2 with Guadagno's attorney, Emidio J. Mattei.

Hampton added that the issue is "a closed book" so far as the commissioners are concerned.

Mattei said Wednesday night, however, that Guadagno will file answers to the commissioner's charge "soon". The lawyer said there would then be a public hearing before the township police committee.

Patient Record Set by Hospital

A record number of patients crowded Memorial hospital Wednesday at 8 a. m.

Crowded is the correct word for it. With 132 persons and just space for 126 beds, patients were put in all corridors except the one next to the maternity department.

The new high in the number of patients broke a record more than 13 months old. The previous record was 123 patients.

Despite the months it took to set a new high mark, the old record nearly was toppled last week when cots lined the hospital corridors nearly every day.

ALBERT P. POLLICK, Memorial's administrator, said, "It is difficult to run any hospital when more than 85 percent of its capacity is used. When over 100 percent is used, the administrative problems are tougher."

People waiting in corridors for a regular hospital bed, usually had to wait several hours. But Memorial's staff is adequate and all the excess number of

Desi Arnaz Recovers

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Desi Arnaz left a hospital Wednesday after a six-day bout with the flu and went to the Beverly Hills home he once shared with Lucille Ball.

But a close friend said it's no reconciliation for the recently divorced TV pair.

"Desi and Lucy will have dinner tonight with their children and then Desi leaves immediately for Palm Springs for the Desilu golf tournament," the friend said.

"When he returns, he will go to his own apartment. He and Lucy are much friendlier now than they were before the divorce. They often have dinner together with the children," the friend added.

Margaret McGrath Drops Complaint In Divorce Case Against Rennie

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The bitterly contested Michael Rennie divorce case, off to a lurid start, had a surprise ending Wednesday. His wife dropped her complaint and he got a decree by default.

The urbane British actor, 50, testified that 40-year-old Margaret McGrath Rennie went home to England in 1953 and he has seen her but three times since. He said she was often drunk, embarrassing him before friends. His grounds were desertion and cruelty.

Her attorney said she dropped her suit for divorce because testifying Tuesday was too much of an ordeal for her. She broke down on the stand and was not in court Wednesday.

She testified that another woman was always present during moments of intimacy with Rennie. He had been expected to counter Wednesday with accusations of his own.

A friend of Rennie's, Hugh Marlowe, testified for him, saying Mrs. Rennie once told him: "I just don't think I'm psychologically fitted to live in this town."

The Rennies, married 14 years, came here in 1950 after he signed a screen contract.

Under a property settlement Rennie will pay $250 a month alimony and $250 a month support for their son, David, 7. She gets custody and he has visitation rights.

Jet Boat for Nik Ordered by Ike

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Now that President Eisenhower isn't going to visit Moscow, what's to become of the jet boat he planned to give Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

In case it hasn't already been delivered in Moscow, builder John Buehler would like to buy it back, as a sort of museum piece.

Buehler said Wednesday a U. S. Air Force plane picked up the boat about four weeks ago at his Indiana factory.

He understood it was to be shipped to Moscow by plane under diplomatic immunity. Buehler said he gave Eisenhower "a good price" on the boat deal.

Boris Pasternak Suffers Severe Heart Ailment

MOSCOW (AP)—Boris Pasternak, controversial Soviet poet and novelist who won the 1958 Nobel Prize for literature, has been stricken with a serious heart ailment and stomach hemorrhage, reports from his village home said Wednesday.

The author of the novel "Dr. Zhivago" was at his home in Peredelkino, 15 miles from Moscow. Pasternak was reported unable to read or receive visitors.

The heart ailment is a cardiac infraction. The hemorrhage occurred last week, but he was reported past the worst of the crisis.

He was attended by one of the Soviet Union's top heart specialists and was reported doing as well as could be expected for a man of his condition and age, 70.

Both Pasternak's wife and son were with him.

The Swedish Academy's announcement that Pasternak had won the 1958 Nobel Prize for "Dr. Zhivago"—a quiet but powerful insight of Communist methods—set off an intriguing development in the cold war. Soviet writers and newspapers attacked him with invective usually reserved for the U.S.S.R.'s major enemies in the West and the award itself was denounced as a hostile act against the Soviet Union.

A week after the announcement, Pasternak declined the prize and asked to be let alone to live out his life in the Soviet Union. But he did not recant a single line of "Dr. Zhivago," which was acclaimed throughout the free world.

Salazar Runs Portugal With Efficient Strength

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A decade ago Premier Antonio de Oliviera Salazar decided that Portugal, with Western Europe's lowest living standard and literacy rate, needed to brighten its face.

ANTONIO SALAZAR

He promptly decreed that all citizens paint their houses every two years.

That decree is typical of the man who plays host to President Eisenhower Thursday.

Salazar, whose 32 years in office give him the longevity record among the world's active rulers, runs his country like the stern and precise schoolmaster he once was.

"I believe democracy is a fiction. I do not believe in universal suffrage. I do not believe in equality (among men) but in hierarchy." That is his announced credo.

In a century that has produced petty strong men and great tyrants, Salazar is a dictator with a difference. Efficiency is his watchword.

His cold, hawk-nosed face has filled out with the passage of time. But he still keeps to himself and refuses to accept the popular adulation so common to totalitarian rulers.

He likes solitary walks and rises early for Mass. He was trained for the priesthood. He lives in a small, austere apartment behind a walled garden in Lisbon. He has never married.

Salazar dresses in blue serge with white shirt, dark tie and high shoes.

This picture of order, neatness and restraint is his design for Portugal as well as his personal life.

He was born April 28, 1889, in a winegrowing village, the son of a tenant farmer. He was a full professor of economics by the age of 28 and still is listed as on leave of absence from the University of Coimbra.

After the monarchy fell in 1910 he saw 40 new cabinets come and go and 16 revolutions erupt as politicians and ideologists struggled for power. The army seized the government in 1926.

Salazar became the real strong man when he took over as finance minister in 1928, and his rule actually dates from that year.

He has held the finance portfolio ever since and has balanced Portugal's budget for 32 years.

Salazar became Premier in 1932. The next year he promulgated his "new state" constitution. Industries were organized into governmenta-controlled cartels, workers in government-run unions.

Along with this came censorship, the secret police, and a single political party called the National Union. Portugal was neutral during World War II but leased an airbase in the Azores to the United States. During the cold war, Portugal has been a sternly anti-Communist member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

In 1958 Salazar allowed relatively free campaigning for elections to the figurehead post of president. Rear Adm. Americo Tomaz, Salazar's candidate, was elected but Gen. Humberto Delgado received 23 per cent of the votes. Salazar took that as an affront, and Delgado fled to Brazil.

Then the Roman Catholic Church spoke out. The Most Rev. Antonio Fereira Gomes, bishop of Oporto, asked Salazar for a discussion of church-state matters. He said: "The Portuguese corporate state (is) in reality the means of despoiling the Portuguese worker." He showed the letter to 15 fellow bishops. Salazar promptly banished him to the Vatican.

Salazar has decreed this as the national code: "God, country, authority, family work." Woman's place is the home; the worker has no right to strike; the government is led by a professional elite; industry follows government orders.

When Salazar decided on an industrialization and development program last year, he made it plain that the money would have to come from private banks, insurance companies and other businesses. But Salazar plans to run the program himself. He trusts no one else.

As for retirement, one associate remarked: "After all, Salazar is only 71. Adenauer (of West Germany) is 84."

THURSDAY, MAY 19, 1960

True, there is a tide in the affairs of men, but there is no gulf-stream setting forever in one direction. — (James Russell Lowell)

We Lose a Good Man

POTTSTOWN will lose one of its finest citizens, one who has done much to help others, when Anthony J. DiMaggio leaves for France early next month.

Mr. DiMaggio was Pottstown plant manager of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company until May 7. Then it was announced he was going to Europe to become general manager of a new Firestone plant in Bethune, France.

At the present, Mr. DiMaggio is being orientated in Akron, Ohio, Firestone's home base. So he actually has left Pottstown, but he keeps in touch with his activities here, especially his charity work, in weekend contacts.

The Pottstown rubber executive came here in 1945, two years after his graduation from college, and rose so rapidly that in five years he was appointed chief chemist, and in another five years he was appointed plant manager. His enthusiasm for work, his magnetic personality, his graciousness with fellow-workers aided him in this rapid climb. He was one of the youngest executives to achieve the top so quickly.

Even though his duties and responsibilities expanded, Mr. DiMaggio found time to do much to aid others. He was president of the Pottstown United Fund, a recognition that came after he conducted a successful 1959-60 campaign. Just a few months ago he received a special award from the United Fund "in recognition of outstanding achievement in serving the human needs of the community."

He's a leader in the Scout movement, a director of the Young Men's Christian association, an active member in a number of chemical societies. He finds time to be a good churchman and a happy father of an affable family group. He's a good man among men.

Pottstown will miss him. But it will wish him the best of luck in France, where he can carry some of the good Pottstown spirit.

An Excellent Question

A Woman reader of the Exchange magazine, which is published by the New York Stock Exchange, recently wrote the editor a letter in which she asked a potent question:

"Why don't large companies endlessly publicize, in a medium read or heard by workers, how much capital it takes to create a job for a worker?"

She amplified this excellent idea in these words:

"If companies drummed on this—not just at strike time—it might help educate the worker that the person who buys a share in the business does him a real service, and, therefore, is entitled to his share of return from it.

"There should be a publicity campaign, telling everybody all the time that the average stock owner has a family income of $7000 per year.

"He wasn't left the money. He earned it, and saved it to invest. And, he is just as entitled to share in the business as the worker.

"Without his contribution, there'd be no business nor job."

The letter writer, incidentally, has an income of about $4000 a year, all coming from dividends on stocks bought a little at a time from savings.

Great numbers of other stockholders are in similarly modest circumstances.

But their savings are a mighty factor in creating and maintaining good jobs at high wages in American enterprise.

When People Understand

IF you have an insurance policy of any kind, you have a very direct interest in rising costs, high taxes, government debt and inflation, and any and all forces which may further reduce the purchasing power for your dollar.

Take life insurance. "Inflationary trends not only increase the cost of life insurance," says the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, "but also reduce the purchasing power of life insurance dollars. Inflation also creates an unhealthy speculative psychology which, if unchecked, can threaten the future soundness of our whole economy.

"Inflation can be controlled, but only with the support of the American people as a whole. The necessary measures include a wise budgetary policy at all levels of government, intelligent debt management and prudent fiscal and monetary policies.

"Public officials can be relied upon invariably to respond when the people come to understand the problem and insist that it be solved."

Fat folk make safer car drivers than thin people, a survey by an Austrian traffic expert indicates. That's odd — if it means they're less inclined to throw their weight around.

People Afraid to Be 'Different'?

Ready to be Serfs?

To the Editor: We have developed a cult of conformity. Members of the most intelligent and most successful groups of our citizenry are also the most reluctant to become involved in political or ideological controversy.

This indicates a distressing trend toward the drab grey conformity—the facelessness—that is the mark of the collectivist state.

When people lose the courage to be different, they become grist for the Mistaken mill, for Mistaken philosophy succeeds only when people lose their individuality before the impersonal, all powerful state.

Pottstown LOOK AHEAD

Price Cut Needed

To the Editor: From what I can read, the consumer is entitled to a price cut in milk. The distributors say they can sell it cheaper.

There are over 1000 taxes on a quart of milk—land tax, tractor tax, tax on feed, tax on income, tax on tax.

It appears that the politicians have bought our votes with our own money.

By the simple device of sticking our heads in the sand, we have made it all possible.

Put Slob in Doghouse?

To the Editor: If "Frantic" is having trouble with the table manners of her husband ("Crudenes Breeds Insanity," Readers Say, May 18), let him eat in the doghouse. He seems to eat like a dog.

You can break his habits easily. You could have the children and yourself eat earlier or later. He'd wonder why he was being shunned. Then you could tell him.

I wouldn't let this go if I were you, because time will make it more irritable.

Pottstown HELPFUL

It's Coming to Him

To the Editor: Under present law a person must forfeit his social security money if he makes more than $1200 a year. This is unrealistic.

It would be different if social security were some kind of largess from the government.

But it isn't.

It's something the oldster has coming to him.

He contributed to the fund, and so did his employer, while he was working.

It's his money. He shouldn't have to agree to live a life of poverty in order to get it.

Retirement Only Thought

To the Editor: It is sad that young men starting out in life should be thinking about retirement, but it is quite in step with some of the attitudes of the times.

Something very close to security-mania grips millions of people these days.

Fortunately, while there are millions who fight tomorrow's anxieties before they are born, there are also more millions who are prepared to wait until they arrive.

If that seems like excessive adventurousness, let us reflect that this country was founded by adventurers and it will continue to grow if its youth postpones thoughts of sunny verandas and retired ease.

Why Is Nikky Worrying?

To the Editor: If Russia is as open for visitors to go anywhere as some returning visitors try to tell us, then pray tell why Khrushchev gets so upset when a plane flies over 10 miles up?

Graterford P.E.N.

Back President

To the editor: Regardless of political beliefs all Americans should back President Eisenhower in his fight with Premier Khrushchev. Now is the time when unity counts.

Sure let's fight among ourselves about taxes, government services, etc., but when we're battling a common foe we must stick together.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

WINIFRED B., aged 35 is a beautiful woman who is carrying a double load.

She is 5' 5" tall, weighs 126, and works as a receptionist.

"But, Dr. Crane, I am a widow," she began, "and I miss the companionship and love of a good man.

"My life isn't as bad as that of many women, however, for I have three fine sons of whom I am very proud. They range from 8 to 12.

"They are active in Boy Scouts and the YMCA. The oldest has carried a newspaper route for a year.

"To help support them, I work in this large office. But I have also taken college classes at night for the past four years and will soon be qualified to teach school.

"I AM doing this in order to be closer to my sons and also have my Summers free to be with them.

"But do you suppose any man around 35 to 45, would be interested in a wife, if he thought she had three boys like mine?"

Tens of thousands of such talented, charming and physically attractive people have asked me for advice on this very same problem during the 25 years I have been writing for newspapers.

In 1956, I was persuaded to join with a few leaders of the Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths, in starting the Scientific Marriage foundation to help introduce congenial people of the opposite sex with a view to forming friendships that might end in happy marriage.

WE NOW have some 1000 priests, rabbis and Protestant clergymen who serve as counselors in various cities and who personally interview each applicant, and also check on his or her three character references.

These clergymen counselors are the backbone of the Scientific Marriage foundation.

So I simply urged Winifred to send for the formal application blank and then visit one of her local counselors.

There are more unmarried women than unmarried men in America, so there is a shortage of males.

Thus, not every applicant can be sure of gaining a congenial wife or husband.

Inside Television

By EVE STARR

STARR REPORT: It was just about a year ago that CBS took to the air with a half-hour, five-a-week daytime soap opera called "For Better or Worse."

To the casual viewer, it seemed like just another soap opera. But it soon became apparent that "For Better or Worse" had a distinct edge on its multitudinous contemporaries. The edge consists of Dr. James A. Peterson and his files.

Jim Peterson, to bring him down to the level of the ordinary mortal, is a marriage counselor. He also is associate professor of sociology at the University of Southern California and considers the university's 13,500 students as his clients. "Thirty-five percent of the students are married," he notes laconically.

Peterson is concerned that there are 30,000,000 working wives in the United States and that in a few years the figure will balloon to 90,000,000.

"CONTRARY TO what a lot of people think," he declares, "a working wife generally means a happier marriage because she has a feeling of independence.

"The day when a wife was a meek and obedient slave has long since gone. The happily married couple today is a team. If they can double their income simply by having the wife work, they are that much better off.

"They can afford children earlier and they avoid the classic arguments over money. Nor is working a hardship on a wife for the many labor-saving devices we now accept as routine make her housework much easier and less time-consuming."

"For Better or Worse" has a ring of truth about it because Peterson supervises the stories and doesn't let too much dramatic license creep in. "There is enough drama and conflict in the true cases themselves," he says.

ACTRESS JUNE Vincent undertook last Fall to star in one of the running episodes and approached it with tongue in cheek. By the time her four-week stint was over she was a nervous and emotional wreck.

"For the first time in my 15 years as a professional," she says, "I found that a role was literally taking me over."

Jim Peterson can point to his own married life as grounds enough for being pretty much an expert on the subject. He has been married to the same wife for 25 years and is the father of three children.

An ardent lapidary, he has his own stone-cutting workshop and finds it makes an excellent retreat. "If I don't want to hear what my wife is saying," he explains with a smile, "I simply turn on the stonecutter. It makes quite a racket and I simply can't hear a word anyone is saying."

Interpreting The News

Democrats Stand Behind President

By FRED HOFFMAN
Associated Press Observer

Democratic leaders took special pains Wednesday to rid Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev of any idea he can split the United States and perhaps get a better deal from a Democratic president.

Democratic and Republican senators prodded the Defense Department for a review of the nation's miliary situation—and possibly a bigger armament effort—in the light of the angry turn of U.S.-Soviet relations.

Pentagon officials, testifying before the Senate Appropriations Committee, said President Eisenhower's defense budget is adequate because it was drafted on the assumption the Soviet threat would be undiminished no matter how the summit turned out.

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, assured the committee top U. S. military leaders are keeping close watch and that "our forces are in a fine, ready condition."

The newest Democratic moves to demonstrate national unity took the form of:

1. A message sent by four top Democrats to Eisenhower in Paris as the summit was falling to pieces. The message asked Eisenhower to let Khrushchev know they feel the East-West talks should not be put off until after the U.S. elections in November.

2. A declaration by Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas — a possible Democratic presidential nominee that "only one man can speak for the country and that he must have behind him the united strength of a determined people."

The message to Eisenhower was signed by Johnson; Adlai E. Stevenson, whom Eisenhower twice defeated for the presidency; House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, and Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"As leaders of the Democratic party of the United States, we earnestly urge you to convey to Premier Khrushchev the views of the opposition party in our country that he reconsider his suggestion for postponement of the summit conference until after the national elections in this country," the message said.

"We feel that total failure of the conference and increasing mistrust on both sides will be serious and deeply disturbing to the whole world.

"All of the American people earnestly desire peace, an end to the arms race and ever better relations between our countries."

There was no immediate word on whether Khrushchev ever got the contents of the Democratic message. He and Eisenhower did not meet after their angry face-to-face confrontation on Monday.

ALL AROUND THE TOWN

How'd We Talk? . . .

Start of Communication . . .

★ YAKITY-YAK—How'd we ever start to talk? Scholars long have pondered that puzzling question: When, how, and where did man first learn to talk? The oldest known written language is Sumerian, which was inscribed on wet clay tablets in the Mesopotamian Valley only 6000 years ago. But prehistoric man doubtless was conversing, hundreds of thousands of years earlier, when he began living in groups and making simple tools. Various philologists have theorized that people developed a language by imitating animal sounds, vocalizing natural gestures, or expressing emotions caused by pain, pleasure, or anger. A new theory of the origin of speech has been advanced by the British philologist, Dr. A. S. Diamond. He believes that man's earliest true words were exclamations—"Cut! Strike! Break! Crush! Kill!"—uttered to signify a specific need for help. . .

ACCORDING to Dr. Diamond, these and similar pure verbal roots are preserved almost intact in Hebrew and Bantu, two of the oldest and least changed languages still spoken. He suggests the human race originally began talking in the vicinity of Africa's great lakes. Archeological findings strengthen his theory. The oldest human remains have been found in Africa. A recent study indicates man may have chipped his first crude stones from Ice Age pebbles on the shores of Lake Tanganyika some 500,000 years ago. Whatever the origin of language, it must have spread rapidly. In his brief moment on this aged earth, man has developed 2500 to 5000 different languages, which are grouped into perhaps 200 distinct families. Each of the languages is complete. Contrary to popular notion, not even the most primitive savages communicate in grunts or growls. . .

★ WAS THERE a parent tongue from which the human race's many diverse languages sprang? No one knows. Human history passed completely into darkness, lost and unrecorded, until people learned to document their activities in an imperishable form. The Biblical story of Babel states, "And the whole earth was of one language, and of one speech." (Genesis 11:1). This common language was confounded, the account says, so that men might not understand one another and complete the tower. Until the late 18th century, Western scholars generally believed Hebrew to be the original tongue. Philologists have now learned, however, that Hebrew and several allied tongues are the offspring of a remote, unknown parent, conveniently labeled Proto-Semitic. . . .

ONE DIFFICULTY in tracing the origin of languages is that they are always changing. Etruscan, for instance, is an extinct speech that defies translation. Latin has become fossilized. North American Indian languages are dying out. Not even the parentage of Indo-European, the comparatively recent Western family of languages that includes English, has been found. English, in particular, is a rapidly growing language. The English vocabulary has increased from about 100,000 words at the time of the Norman Conquest (A.D. 1066) to more than a million words today. It is not unlikely that a philologist of 2000 years hence will have difficulty reconciling the Anglo-Saxon of Beowulf to "Like she's the most, man."

★ ANTIQUE—Almost 60 years ago a Victorian sofa was stuffed with four old newspapers. The sturdy old sofa bore a lot of weight since that time and the material long since was worn thin. Its new owner, Mrs. Thomas Emery, Chester Springs, sent it to Richard M. Gingrich, a Pottstown upholsterer, who uncovered the papers. They were worn and difficult to tell where they came from, but one was a 1902 Morning Republican of West Chester. Mrs. Emery bought the sofa from Dr. Catherine Bishop who lived on a five acre Chester Springs farm until she retired and moved to West Chester. "Dr. Bishop said the sofa dated back about 100 years and belonged to her mother," Mrs. Emery said. She said she would keep the papers and add them to her collection of antiques. . . Your Health

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

AS WARMER weather begns to permeate much of the country, many of us start thinking about picnics, golfing, swimming, softball and other Summer activities.

For most of us, such Summer exercise is fine—in moderation.

I would like to give you a simple guide that will indicate when you have done too much.

Your heart provides the tipoff. So heed its advice.

The heart should quiet down within ten minutes after you stop exercising. If it doesn't, if it pounds harder and faster than it normally does, you have exercised too strenuously.

Your breathing should also return to normal within the ten-minute period. And you should lose that "pooped" feeling within the same time limit. You may still feel a little tired, but you should notice some improvement.

What's more, you should have a good night's sleep. If your slumber is disturbed because of the activities you carried on during the day, you probably did too much.

And if you are still weary from the strain the following day, you had better take it much easier the next weekend.

Muscle soreness doesn't count. You can expect that from just about any unusual activities, at least early in the season, unless you have been in training most of the Winter.

Exercise, in itself, doesn't ordinarily injure a healthy normal heart. But by middle age, many hearts have lost a bit of their resiliency.

So act your age this Summer and listen to your heart.

Lost and Found

Nicknamed Tommy by the Sisters of the New York Foundling hospital, the 8 month old youngster in the top photo was found on Riverside drive in New York. Police have been unable to identify the baby, who was well fed and healthy when found. A couple of Boston police officers had an easier job. They discovered Beth Ann Doris taking a predawn stroll and awakened quite a few households before receiving a radio call in their cruiser telling them Beth Ann's frantic mother was at the police station. Lower right a sleepy Mrs. Ruth Lane saying, "No, not mine."

of Grace Lutheran church.

The church is across the alley from Latshaw's home, the grocery just a few blocks away and the most pleasurable spot for him is the backyard garden. "Everything I want most is close at hand, so why gallivant around?" said Latshaw.

Basing his home as the center of activity started early for Latshaw. "Friends and relatives came to our 40 acre farm on the Fourth of July, Labor Day and at harvest time. There also were church picnics in the area and family reunions right in the house.

"We had lots of fun and what bemuses me today is the fact that youngsters won't stay home with their folks. The kids want to go carousing. Times sure have changed," said Latshaw.

operating suite. The hospital auxiliary donated $1000 to the building fund, bringing total contributions this year to $20,000.

Food items collected during donation day in borough schools totaled 3132 packages and cans.

During April, the following statistics were recorded: 495 admissions, 74 births, 185 emergency cases and 179 surgical cases. Gray Ladies gave 437 hours of service.

patients were assured full care, said Pollick.

Memorial's last expansion of facilities was in 1956. A second floor was added to the hospital's south wing and the addition made space for 19 more beds.

But every year since then, said Pollick, the number of patients rose. For example, the first 17 days this month had 59 more admissions and 223 more days of patient care than the same period last year.

So far this fiscal year, Memorial has had 4910 admissions for a 5 percent boost over 1959.

Pollick said the biggest overload this year has come from 147 more medical cases and 52 more births than the same time last year.

TIRE TAKEN

Harry N. Daylor, 1150 High street, reported to borough police Wednesday afternoon that someone had stolen a new tire and wheel valued at $100 from his car. He said the theft occurred while the auto was parked in the rear of his home overnight.

COMPETITION ASKED FOR MILK PRICES

for each container. The additional cent covers napkins, straws, and handling.

* * *

MRS. KATHRYN F. Weikel, cafeteria manager for Pottstown Junior and Senior High schools, agreed Wednesday night that prices could be lowered through competitive bidding by the dairies.

"But," she noted, "the prices here are already lower than in the two school districts that petitioned the milk commission."

Pottstown pupils pay four cents for an eight-ounce cup of milk—the equivalent of a half-pint container. The Federal reimbursement, under a complicated formula, is 3.75 cents compared to the 3.1 cents for Abington township and Upper Darby.

The Pottstown schools use a milk dispenser.

THE ELEMENTARY, Junior and Senior High schools average consumption is 200 quarts—or 800 cups—a day. The cost for 160 to 200 quarts daily is 21.75 cents a quart. The price would decrease if consumption increased above the 200 quart level, the cafeteria manager reported.

Mrs. Weikel, who lives at 360 Lincoln avenue, said the school district has not discussed the question of milk prices, and she knows of no plans to present a similar petition to the commission when it meets again on June 6.

The Philadelphia board of education is expected to join with Abington township and Upper Darby at that time, however.

The attorney for the Philadelphia Milk Distributors association, which is opposing the exemptions and a petition to allow the sale of milk in gallon jugs, protested the competitive bidding for schools.

JOHN MARTIN, association attorney, in cross examining representatives of the two school districts, pointed out that the wholesale price to schools is now 15 percent lower than the wholesale price to retail firms.

Mrs. Catherine Nichols, director of school cafeterias for Upper Darby, reported:

"That's the way it should be. We are the milk industry's biggest advertising agency. We teach the value and importance of drinking milk. You spend a lot of advertising money on television. Why don't you give us some of that?"

Earlier in the day Martin accused Harold Kohn, attorney for a Delaware dairy seeking to sell milk by the gallon in Pennsylvania, of a "vicious attack" on the commission.

THE CHARGE was an outgrowth of Kohn's attack Tuesday on the commission. Kohn charged the commission with showing "favoritism" to Philadelphia firms which oppose selling milk by the gallon, and that the commission was against plans to reduce the price of milk to consumers.

Martin said the charge was "a vicious attack and was an attempt to coerce and intimidate this commission." He produced a copy of the Canons of the American Bar association and read them to the commission and Kohn.

Martin said these forbid the issuance of statements during the course of court and regulatory body hearings.

Kohn in turn accused Martin of "running to the commission like a screaming schoolgirl," and produced several court decisions which he said showed that his statements were not wrong.

"I personally think the commission is sufficiently competent to protect its own dignity," he explained.

refuse disposal for residents of the area.

DREHER slipped about 10:30 a. m. Monday when he ventured too close to the edge of the shaft while dumping cans and paper from the previous night's meal.

He remembers shrieking as he slipped, and clawing for one of the beams shoring up the sides of the shaft. He missed the beam but caught a wire about half way down.

The wire cutting into his hand and his own weight forced him to let go in a few minutes, and he dropped to the bottom of the 25-foot shaft.

For the next 5½ hours Dreher clutched himself to keep warm and shouted for help. The long, narrow tunnel revebrated his voice, but made his calls for help a weak whisper above ground.

AT 5 P. M. his daughter Susan returned from Upper Perkiomen Joint High school where she is a pupil. Missing her father, she wandered first out front, and then out back, to look for him.

She heard her father's cry when she wandered close to the mine. Running to a neighbor's farm, she met the owner, Paul Hilbert, taking corn from the corn crib.

Hilbert grabbed a ladder and rope from the tool shed after warning Susan to stay away from the shaft opening. While Susan and her father called to each other—Dreher shouting he was fine—Hilbert lowered the ladder and rope.

Dreher climbed to the top of the 18-foot ladder, then tied the rope around his waist before Hilbert pulled him the rest of the way.

He refused to go to a hospital, passing the bruises off as "nothing" and the cold as something that a "hot cup of coffee" would fix.

the elementary group about junior high club activities. Speakers were: Helen Frederick assembly; Barbara Canning; clubs; Lynette Stanton, musical organizations; William Hain, patrol; Pamela Wilson, press club; Jack Wolf, student council, and Carroll Bechtel, sports.

Following the indoctrination program the pupils were taken on a tour of the building including library, art room, music room and offices. The girls were guided through the cooking and sewing rooms while the boys visited the shops.

The pupils were then divided into 16 sections and visited the seventh grade classrooms where the teachers explained the course of study, requirements for gym classes and general rules and regulations of the school.

After the tour pupils gathered at the cafeteria where they were given refreshments.

Last on the list of afternoon activities was a demonstration by members of the gym classes who exhibited rope climbing and tumbling.

Miss Purnell, who organized Visitation day six years ago, explained that pupils have fewer problems going into a new school if they are familiar with the building and know what is expected of them.

First day of school for the youngsters will be Sept. 7.

League to Study Library Facilities

The League of Women voters will make a study of library facilities in Pottstown beginning in September, it was announced Wednesday by Mrs. Merrill Crouthamel, library board member and member of the League.

Mrs. Crouthamel and Freda Gloss, Pottstown librarian, attended the District Library association Spring meeting in West Chester Wednesday where it was brought out that League chapters in Montgomery and Philadelphia counties are making similar surveys.

Members of the League conducted a panel discussion on "The Public Library — Everybody's Business" during the meeting.

Rohrbach's Testimony Was 'Personal Opinion'

help finance the Municipal airport was "selfishly inspired" on his part.

The Chamber offered to help the borough seek Federal aid then, but a resolution by Minute Men (a Chamber organization) in February, 1958, asked the borough to survey many sites before applying for further funds to expand the Stowe site.

Elliott's statement said the Chamber has never taken an official stand since the inception of the Municipal airport expansion efforts.

HIS EXACT statement was:

"Dr. Grant J. Rohrbach reported on the airport hearings held at Harrisburg Tuesday stating that he testified as an individual and did not represent the Chamber of Commerce or express opinions other than his own.

"I would like to further state that the Chamber has not changed any stands on this subject, because it has not taken an official stand at any time.

"The Chamber's policy remained consistent. Issues cannot be resolved by the Chamber of Comerce on the present airport controversy.

'The Chamber is made up of a large and broad cross section of all business and industry in the greater Pottstown area, including the operators of both the Pottstown Municipal and Limerick airports.

"In fact, most all local persons testifying in both personal and official capacities at the hearings—on both sides of the question — are members themselves, or represented members of the Chamber of Commerce.

"It is clear therefore in my opinion that the Chamber could not arbitrarily take either side in the matter. The decision can only be reached by public officials after hearing all testimony and weighing it carefully."

DR. ROHRBACH bared his soul at the hearing, explaining why Chamber sentiment seemed to change between 1957 and 1958 from Stowe expansion to a tendency to favor the Limerick airport.

Rohrbach said he used his influence in the Chamber air and aviation committee to start a bandwagon to get the Stowe runway paved.

At that time, his plane was based at the Municipal airport, and he said his reasoning was he couldn't get any co-operation there to have the sod runway repaired, so he decided the solution was a paved runway.

Later, Rohrbach said, he suddenly began to realize that maybe it would be foolish to improve Stowe if arrangements could be made to expand and improve the Limerick site instead.

Once more, Dr. Rohrbach used his persuasiveness to interest his fellow Minute Men in changing their sentiments to Limerick.

Consequently, the Minute Men presented the borough with its resolution to consider moving the Municipal airport to Limerick.

In Harrisburg, after apologizing for his actions, Dr. Rohrbach went on to beef up in great measure testimony by airport neighbors and Schwab, the instigator of the memorandum of opposition which lead to the hearing.

Limerick Man Released In Bail

Norman Moore, Limerick, was released in $200 bail pending action by the Berks county grand jury after a hearing before Justice of the Peace Earl H. Keim, Boyertown, on a charge of failing to stop and identify himself at the scene of an accident.

Moore was prosecuted by Boyertown Police Chief Henry E. Groff.

Chief Groff contends Moore was the driver of a car that sideswiped a parked auto owned by Leroy Ehst, Boyertown, May 1. Damage to the Ehst car amounted to $269

Moore, who did not testify at the hearing, was represented by attorney Kenneth Nyce. The hearing was Tuesday night.

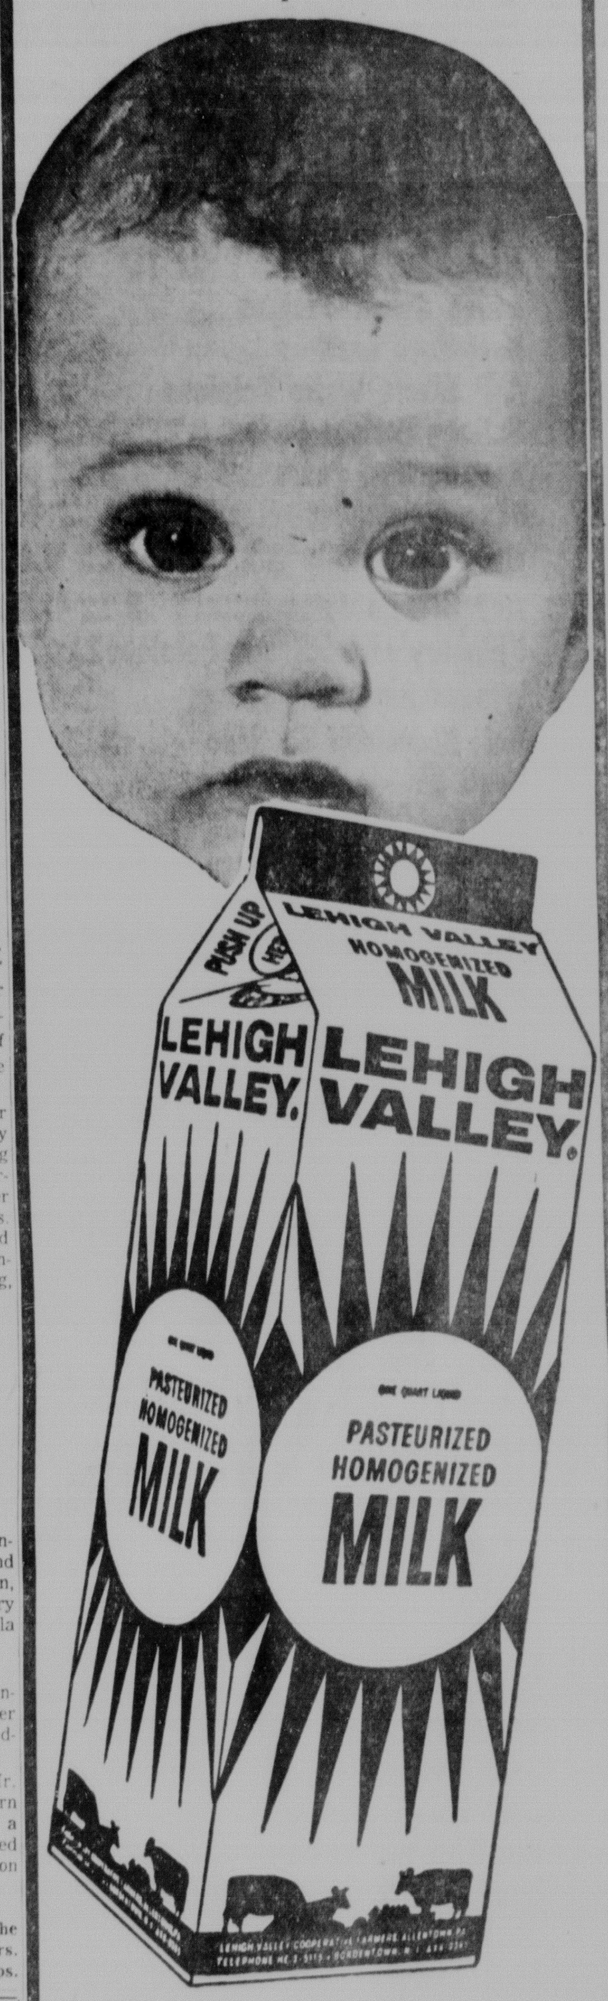
PROTEIN

essential for growth and development . . .



With other nutrients, protein affects the differentiation of cells during development. . . . participates in all metabolic processes which result in growth . . . and is stored as the structural part of all of the soft tissues of the body. In relation to body weight, requirement for protein . . . expressed as such or as essential amino acids and total nitrogen . . . is highest during infancy . . . slowly decreasing until adult size is reached.

As increasing amounts of high quality protein are fed to children, the amino acid pattern of the diet decreases in importance. As long as the biological value of the protein of a diet falls above 60, the amino acid pattern is not critical . . . for amino acid requirements can readily be satisfied if enough protein is eaten.

Milk is man's first dietary source of protein . . . providing the total protein needs during the first months of life. One quart of LEHIGH VALLEY MILK daily can provide the pre-school child up to 85 percent of his protein allowance . . . and the teen-age youth one-third to one-half of his protein allowance.

'I Was a Nagger,' Explains Fast Talking Tommy the Cork

WASHINGTON (AP)—With an avalanche of words, fast-talking Thomas G. (Tommy the Cork) Corcoran insisted Wednesday there was nothing secret or wrong about his off-the-record talks with members of the Federal Power Commission.

Corcoran, Washington attorney for a major natural gas pipeline, argued before a House subcommitttee that under the law he had a perfect right to discuss a case the commissioners had under consideration.

"I was a nagger," he said cheerfully.

Corcoran explained he was forever pressing the commission to expedite action on his client's cases.

"But we carefully did not talk about the merits," he assured the inquiring congressman, members of the House subcommittee on Legislative Oversight.

The subcommittee is looking for any signs that outsiders have influenced FPC decisions. Corcoran's visits and phone conversations with Chairman Jerome K. Kuykendall and two commissioners, Arthur Kline and William R. Connole, last October precipitated the inquiry.

Corcoran, now 59 years old and gray-haired, put on a vigorous show as a witness. It was reminiscent of his youth when he was in the inner circle of the Franklin D. Roosevelt New Deal, bouncing around Washington and busily drafting major federal laws.

Corcoran showed up with four attorneys, but didn't need their help.

He hardly let the committee counsel, Robert W. Lishman, get a word in edgewise. This disconcerted Lishman a bit, for he is used to conducting witnesses along his own chosen course of questioning.

Corcoran, said in declaring that his talks with commissioners violated neither law nor ethics, that he was just as public about his contacts as if he had led a brass band down the FPC halls.

His client, Midwestern Gas Transmission Co., sought and won permission from the FPC to import Canadian gas into the Midwest.

"I was urging avoidance of an unnecessary procedural lapse that would abort the project," he explained.

He discussed and defended his mention to FPC Chairman Kuykendall that Tennessee Gas Transmission Co., which owns all Midwestern's stock, might have to divest itself of some of its holdings.

He denied this suggestion was intended to influence the rate of return which the commission was considering fixing for Midwestern on the project.

Midwestern had asked for a 7 per cent return. An FPC examiner had recommended 6¼. The FPC eventually left the rate open, for a later decision.

It was understandable, Corcoran conceded, that Kuykendall might have misunderstood his purpose: "I talked so fast."

Asked about his legal fees from Tennessee Gas, Corcoran said his firm has been retained by the pipeline company since 1935 for $5,000 a month. Four people in the firm do nothing but work on matters affecting Tennessee and its subsidiaries, he said.

"The young people do the bulk of the work, and I jump on an airplane and jump from one hot spot to another," Corcoran explained.

He said his calls on FPC members, for example, "coincided with moments of crisis."

Red Tensions Cause Tourists To Cancel Plans

By HAL McCLURE

NEW YORK (AP) — Growing tension with the Soviet Union has prompted some tourists to cancel proposed summer visits to the U.S.S.R., a survey of travel agencies showed Wednesday.

Other tourists are adopting a wait-and-see attitude before definitely making up their minds, officials say.

"If President Eisenhower is unwelcome in Russia, then I don't want to go either," one tourist said.

"I don't want to spend my dollars where I'm not wanted," another was quoted.

"Who wants to be in Moscow during a spy trial?" asked one man.

Some tourist agencies have advised their clients not to visit the Soviet Union. "We feel its inappropriate now under the circumstances," said Jack Wiersma of the American Tourist Bureau.

Gabriel Reiner, head of the Cosmos Travel Agency, admitted there had been a few cancellations above normal, but he added: "We're taking our lead from the State Department. They're saying there's no reason to cancel any trips and they're still handling visa applications."

Cosmos will send between 1,200 and 1,500 persons to Eastern Europe this summer. The agency specializes in sending tours to this area.

Thomas Cook & Son, Inc., said it is too early to tell if its Soviet tours had been affected by the heating of the East-West cold war.

Officials of another big travel agency, American Express said, only three trips to the U.S.S.R. had been canceled here in the past two days.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — When Charlie Gunter was hailed before a U.S. Commissioner on charges of making moonshine whisky in the Great Smoky Mountains National park, he explained he was "possum huntin'."

This satisfied the commissioner that he wasn't moonshining. But it resulted in a 30-day suspended sentence, anyway. "Possum huntin'" is illegal in the park.

Russia Demands U.N. Action on Espionage Flights

Nixon Says Red Spy Was Caught During Khrushchev's Visit

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) —Vice President Richard M. Nixon disclosed Wednesday night that the United Nations had arranged for the removal of a Soviet official caught spying in Massachusetts while Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was addressing the U.N. last Sept. 18.

Nixon told a news conference that two Russians attached to their country's U.N. delegation had been spotted during an attempt to obtain highly classified information from an American in Springfield.

The vice president said they were not picked up because Secretary of State Christian A. Herter ruled against raising any public diplomatic protest at a time when Khrushchev was visiting this country.

He said that in a calm way this contrasted with Khrushchev's explosions over the American spy plane incident. The matter was reported to Dag Hammarskjold, the U.N. secretary-General.

After an investigation, Nixon said, Hammarskjold arranged for one of the Soviet officials and his family to be returned to their homeland last January. The vice president said that because the other official involved had merely observed and had not actually participated in the contact, he remains attached to the Soviet delegation.

Nixon said the American in the case was entirely in the clear and was not taken into custody. He said he could not reveal any more about the matter except to make it clear that the American was not a government agent.

In Washington, the State Department gave the name of the Russian who returned home as Vadim A. Kirilyuk.

A State Department spokesman said Kirilyuk's "activities were completely outside his U. N. duties and were an abuse of the privilege of his residence in the United States under the United Nations headquarters agreement."

The spokesman said the United States never did lodge an official protest over the incident with the Soviet Union.

Nixon had related the incident earlier to support his contention that Khrushchev, whom he labeled "a master of espionage," continued Soviet spying activities even while he was in this country.

He cited this to counter the statements of Democrats who said President Eisenhower "blundered" by not announcing the halting of U2 spy plane flights over the Soviet Union earlier in an effort to save the summit conference.

Nixon said he had talked by telephone to Eisenhower in Paris Wednesday afternoon. He said he told the President he believed "a solid majority of the American people are behind him in this stand."

The vice president quoted Eisenhower as saying other Western leaders agreed that Khrushchev had contrived to break up the conference for reasons other than the U2 incident.

MORSE BIDS FOR OREGON PRIMARY NOD

Kennedy Reasserts Stand on Vatican Influence

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) disavowed Vatican control—and the seriousness of a presidential rival —as he tried Wednesday to parlay a spectacular Maryland primary victory on another in Oregon Friday.

Kennedy scoured the populous Portland area for votes in a bid to make it two primaries in a row over Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore). He was using old themes with occasional new twists.

Outwardly undaunted by his licking in Maryland Tuesday, Morse worked over Portland territory, too. He made his pitch to oldsters, railroad hands, strikers and Democratic women.

Talking to a Golden Age club Morse called for legislation to guarantee medical care for all persons over 65 and to put an escalator clause in the Social Security law to handle inflation.

Neither Kennedy nor Morse has injected into the campaign the issue of Kennedy's Roman Catholic religion. But Kennedy was getting more questions about it from audiences, since the Vatican newspaper restated that the Roman Catholic church has a right to give guidance on social and political activities.

At an unscheduled stop at a high school at Scappoose, a few miles north of Portland, a youngster asked Kennedy whether the Pope would have influence on him if he tried.

"In answer to your question, it is no," Kennedy replied evenly.

He repeated that he upholds the Constitutional declaration for separation of church and state. And he said that "the president takes an oath to God, who is above the Popes and presidents."

Kennedy hammered continuously on his contention that Morse isn't a real contender for the Democratic presidential nomination and thus Oregonians shouldn't waste votes on their senator.

"The Oregon primary therefore truly becomes a national test of the relative strength of the three national candidates," Kennedy said.

He was speaking there of himself and Sens. Stuart Symington of Missouri and Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

Frenchmen Boo Khrushchev In Paris Streets

PARIS (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev denounced President Eisenhower anew Wednesday on the issue of aerial spying and snubbed the American leader in a round of Paris farewells.

Likening Eisenhower to a thief, the Soviet Premier scowled and thundered about the dead summit conference, the Berlin problem, the U2 spy plane incident and other issues.

Before 2,000 newsmen from East and West, Khrushchev suggested it might be well to take alleged American aggressors "by the scruff of the neck" and "Give them a little shaking."

Khrushchev blamed the President for the summit collapse, blasted his policy on intelligence flights, accused him of deceit and called him a "fishy" friend.

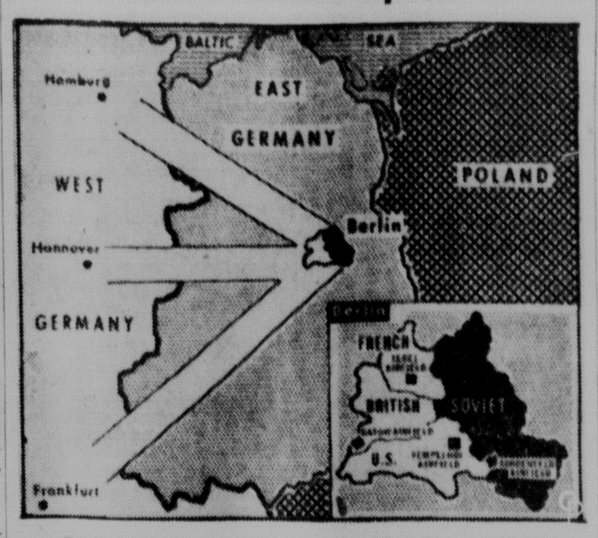
He asserted that the U2 spy plane incident, on which Eisenhower ignored his demands for an apology and punishment of the responsible Americans, convinced the Russians the Berlin problem must be approached with "resolve and urgency."

He threatened new efforts to squeeze the Western powers out of West Berlin. He said a Soviet-East German peace treaty depriving the United States, Britain and France of their garrison rights will be signed "when we consider the time is ripe."

Khrushchev was booed by hostile Frenchmen in Paris streets as he made his farewell calls on British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and French President Charles de Gaulle.

He met a mixed reaction later at the news conference in the summit press center at the Palais de Chaillot.

Next Trouble Spot?



Berlin, above, may prove the setting for a new East-West crisis. Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev is scheduled to stop in East Berlin on his way back to Moscow.

Communist East Germany Prepares for Nik Visit

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany is preparing to give Nikita Khrushchev a conquering-hero type welcome Thursday, but a scheduled speech by the Soviet Premier has been put off until Friday.

Khrushchev is to fly to East Berlin Thursday from Paris and original plans called for him to address a giant rally shortly after his arrival. Late Wednesday the official East German radio announced the speech set for 3:30 p. m.—9:30 a. m. EST—Thursday had been postponed until 5 p. m. Friday. No reason was given.

It also said his speech would be made in Werner Seelenbinder Hall, instead of outdoors in Marx-Engels Square as had been planned.

The official East German news agency ADN said Khrushchev would arrive from Paris at 2 p.m. East German residents were urged to put out flags and greet him along the route from the airport.

Communist sources indicated, however, there is no plan for Khrushchev to make any move in East Berlin which might immediately cause a more dangerous East-West crisis.

They indicated Khrushchev's visit to East Berlin probably will be short, perhaps only a day and a half or two days. This would hardly give sufficient time for a ceremonious signing of his oft-threatened, Soviet-East German peace treaty.

The Communist press is playing Khrushchev up as the conquering hero of Paris and East Germany's rulers are preparing a reception to fit that role.

There was no mention of a separate peace treaty. The official East German news agency ADN distributed a dispatch saying a peace treaty will not be signed now.

Gromyko Cables Sudden Request; Lodge Denies Allegations Of Soviet Complaint

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The Soviet Union brought the U2 spy plane case to the United Nations Wednesday night, declaring American flights over Soviet soil threaten world peace.

The Russians demanded urgent action by the U. N. Security Council to stop all such flights.

In Paris this week President Eisenhower said the flights over the U.S.S.R. had been ordered stopped as of last Thursday.

The Soviet move to the United Nations from Paris as the arena of Premier Nikita Khrushchev's loud protests came quicker than American and other diplomats had expected.

In effect the Russians beat the United States to the draw here

The announcement of the Soviet maneuver came as diplomatic sources disclosed U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge is going to Washington for urgent weekend conferences with President Eisenhower on the U. S. course now in the U. N.

Diplomatic informants said the Washington talks would prepare Lodge's presentation of an Eisenhower plan for international aerial surveillance in the wake of the summit-wrecking U2 incident.

The United States was reported planning to call next week for a meeting of the U. N. Security Council to consider Eisenhower's proposal.

Khrushchev had threatened to request consideration of the U2 case here but had been expected to wait until his return from the Paris summit via Communist East Germany to Moscow.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko cabled the request from Paris, where the summit conference broke up Tuesday over the U2 spy plane incident of May 1. He said the American flights were "aggressive acts."

In a statement issued soon after the U. N. released Gromyko's message, Ambassador Lodge denied this.

The statement said: "There have been no aggressive acts such as the Soviet complaint alleges. Instead of making such charges, we should all look for the cause of the trouble—which is the danger of sudden death due to surprise attack by nuclear weapons. The United States will at the proper time make proposals to protect humanity against this danger."

Gromyko said flights of U. S. military aircraft across Soviet frontiers were a threat to universal peace. He expressed the hope that the Council would "take the necessary measures to halt the unheard of provocative actions of the United States of America."

The cable from Gromyko said: "Mr. President:

"The government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics requests that the Security Council should be convened urgently to examine the question of aggressive acts by the Air Force of the United States of America against the Soviet Union, creating a threat to universal peace.

"The need for immediate examination of this question arises from the fact that military aircraft of the United States of America have repeatedly encroached upon the air space of the U.S.S.R. and that the government of the United States of America has declared these actions on its part which violate the frontiers of other sovereign states to be its state policy.

"Under the United Nations Charter the Security Council bears the main responsibility for the maintenance of international peace and security.

"In view of the foregoing, the Soviet government expects that the Security Council will urgently consider the question referred to above and will take the necessary measures to halt the unheard of provocative actions of the United States of America which represent a threat to the cause of peace.

"An explanatory memorandum is being sent to you in amplification."

There was no immediate indication when the Council might meet.

CARS IN SINGAPORE

SINGAPORE (AP)—This island city-state has the most cars per capita in Asia outside Japan. Auto registration reached 59,532 last month, an increase of more than 1,700 this year, and an average of a car for each 25 persons. The Asian average including Japan is about one car per 1,000 compared with one for three in the United States and one for 11 in Britain.

FCC Silences Radio Station; Ex-presidents Looking for Jobs

ROYAL OAK, Mich. (AP)—Radio station WMEW is off the air. And its presidents, William Mortimer and Edward Wolfrum, are among the unemployed.

William and Edward, who combined their initials to get the station's call letters, are 14 years of age.

Their daily 5 p. m. to 8 p. m. operation on 650 kilocycles, with a signal that reached out half a mile, got put off the air by the Federal Communications Commission.

A newspaper story about WMEW, made from $25 worth of radio parts and some junk from sympathetic adult radio bugs, was read by an FPC official. WMEW had to go, he said, because it didn't have a license and was using the same frequency as a station down in Tennessee.

William exhumed magazine articles saying no license was needed for such a small operation. The FCC man said the magazine writers were misinformed.

No license, no operation, he said.

And this after WMEW had given free time to government-furnished records plugging defense bonds and extolling life in the armed services.

Anyway, the ice cream bar man and the door-to-door bakery salesman who bought WMEW time will have to look elsewhere for an advertising outlet.

And William and Edward think they just might be able to provide it. They're toying with the idea of loudspeakers in trees and backyards around the neighborhood—just in case some of the 10 Detroit area radio stations Edward has called about jobs can't use a pair of ex-presidents this summer.

Both were presidents of WMEW "because we got into arguments." Their record shows were "Platter Matinee" and "Music in Orbit." They also had newscasts—as soon as the papers arrived.

New Aircraft Carrier Will Be Christened

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—The Kitty Hawk, first Navy aircraft carrier to be armed with guided missiles, will be christened Saturday at the New York Shipbuilding Corp. yards.

The Kitty Hawk, fifth carrier in America's Forrestal class, is 1,069 feet long and 252 feet at its widest point.

Mrs. Neil H. McElroy, wife of the former secretary of defense, will christen the vessel.

Resignation Demanded Of Top Drug Official

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming Wednesday demanded the resignation of a top federal drug official shortly after senators heard testimony the official received $284,142.40 for doing business since 1953 with firms his office polices.

DR. HENRY WELCH

Flemming bitterly denounced the official, Dr. Henry Welch, head of the Food and Drug Administration's antibiotics division, saying Welch had "deliberately misled his superiors" about his outside activities.

Welch is reported suffering from a heart ailment and has applied for disability retirement effective June 1. But Flemming said he should not be allowed to retire without the government taking some action.

The Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, which is investigating drug prices, heard an accounting by staff investigators of Welch's work for a New York firm which publishes medical journals, M. D. Publications, Inc. and from other ventures. Welch did not attend the hearing.

The testimony prompted Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) to send a report to Flemming. The senator also demanded from Welch's attorney a report whether the income was classified for tax purposes as gifts or something else.

Flemming called a news conference and issued a statement saying Welch had misled his superiors "in receiving compensation far beyond what is the commonly accepted concept of an 'honorarium.'"

Flemming told reporters that a resignation by Welch from his $17,500-a-year job would not affect his retirement rights.

* * *

The secretary recalled that last October Welch was ordered to discontinue his association with MDP "because we believed that involved a 'real or apparent conflict of interest'" and that his activities might reflect discredit on the Welfare Department.

If he had known what he knows now, Flemming said, he would have demanded Welch's resignation then.

At the time, Flemming said, it was emphasized that Welch's outside activities were undertaken after they were discussed with his superiors and had prior approval.

"It is clear," Flemming said, "that the compensation received by Dr. Welch was of a nature as to create an inevitable conflict between his own personal interests and the interests of the public."

Kefauver had expressed special curiosity about the propriety of Welch telling his superiors only that he was receiving an "honorarium" for his outside work without saying how much money he got.

Joint School Panel Alters Thanksgiving Football Game Hours

Spring-Ford Joint school committee agreed to a request from the Pastor's association ,that the Thanksgiving day football game time be changed from 10 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., at its May meeting Wednesday night.

In a letter from the association, signed by the Rev. Dr. Franklin P. Watts, Royersford, and the Rev. Michael R. Schmidt, Spring City, it was indicated that the pastoral group was disappointed at the resumption of Thanksgiving football at the 10 o'clock time, because it would interfere with the morning worship on a day which is primarily set aside for giving thanks.

The pastors indicated that worship on Thanksgiving eve' is not satisfactory and they suggested starting their service at 8:30 a. m., instead of 9 a. m., if the time of the football game be delayed one-half hour. This would afford opportunity for the public to attend both.

This compromise was carried unanimously.

THE PERSONNEL panel of the joint committee in report given by A. J. Balch, chairman, presented three resignations and two teacher elections.

Resignations accepted were: Aaron J. Holliday, Limerick school, effective at the close of the term, because of entering the ministry.

Diana J. Vye, Washington street Junior High school, effective at the close of the term, for personal reasons.

Charles B. Shoup, veteran teacher in the Limerick Elementary school, effective at the close of the term, because of retirement.

TWO NEW teachers elected, both graduates of Royersford High school before the jointure, were: Mary P. Matthews, Media, for the Limerick Elementary school, and Eileen L. Brunner, Kennett Square, Elementary art teacher.

Miss Matthews graduated from Royersford High school in 1955 and Kutztown State college in 1959. She is now at the Thomas Coebourn school, Chester.

Miss Brunner graduated from Royersford High and Kutztown, and is now at Kennett Square Consolidated school.

ATHLETIC FIELD BIDS OPENED BY AUTHORITY

10 Quotations Read; Panel Defers Action

Spring-Ford School authority met in the Senior High school, Royersford, Wednesday night, and opened bids for a Senior high school athletic field, but took no action.

Quotations were read from 10 bidders on various phases of the work, including the athletic field grading, grandstands, planting, plumbing and electric work.

Some bidders gave prices on one item, some on two and three all of which were tabulated for further study and recommendation from the Joint School board.

From the bids submitted it was indicated the total cost of the entire layout would approximate $118,000.

Action to procure an athletic field had been taken at a meeting of the Joint School board April 13, when the School authority was authorized to seek bids.

The business meeting was conducted by Darlene Oehlert, president.

It was announced a party has been planned for Tuesday, at New Hanover Lutheran church, and a hayride for the local league May 28. Activities planned for the Summer include bowling, miniature golf and a visit to Hershey park.

Attending were 32 members with the advisers, Ruth Hoffman and Jean Troxel and the Rev. John B. Bergstresser, pastor.

Women's Club Makes Quilt

The Women's Missionary society of Faith Bible Fellowship church, Spring City, met for a covered dish dinner at the parsonage recently.

A work period preceded the meal. A quilt was made. Devotions and a business meeting followed the dinner. The following attended: the height of the flood. Entire families were picked out of upper floor windows or off rooftops.

Drouth-Breaking Rain First Welcomed Then Feared as 'Wet Terror'

The mother of a one-day old son had to be carried to a doctor's office after her home threatened to give way. The woman, Mrs. Angelo Palladino, had given birth to her son on Saturday morning as the floodwaters swept into towns further West along the Schuylkill.

Another who remembers the flood is Theodore P. Peters, of 1035 Riverside drive, Kenilworth.

Riverside drive was the hardest hit section of the town. Forty homes along the Kenilworth street had to be evacuated when waters rose above the first floor.

"It came up to the first floor —just level with the porch roof —and we sat up there on the roof until the boat came to take us off," Peters remembers.

"It had been real dry before the rains started," he remembered, "and after the rains started, it seems to have been wets for years. After they allowed us to return to our home, we had to first start cleaning it out. It was the worst Spring cleaning ever."

Another section hard hit by the storm was South Pottstown. All houses on the West side of South Hanover street were badly damaged by the muddy water that swirled through windows and doors and pushed at the foundations.

BETWEEN THE river bridge and West Main street, five and six feet of water turned streets into canals — and swimming pools. For the children, every window sill became a diving board and every street a swimming pool until terrified parents put a stop to the practice.

Water street, east of Washington street, was evacuated of women and children by health officials who feared that the water had become contaminated. Limited sleeping facilities made it impossible to evacuate the men — most of whom were working with Civilian Defense groups anyway.

The women and children were put up in private homes and in dormitories hastily set up at the YWCA by Red Cross officials. The Red Cross also set up food distribution centers and first aid centers to take care of the hungry and injured.

Manufacturing plants closed down until midweek, reporting heavy damages and severe losses in needed military production. The Jacobs Aircraft Engine company evacuated new machines badly needed for the military from a South Pottstown warehouse to higher ground north of town. The machinery had been in the warehouse prior to installation in a new Moser road plant.

GAS STATION row along West High street was inundated, reporting damages in the thousands to add to the decrease in gasoline usage caused by the government's gas rationing.

Bridges crossing the Schuylkill river at various points in the area were shaken and at times awash, and for a time it was feared that many would be damaged beyond repair.

Police and Boy Scouts limited traffic on most spans to one car at a time once the rain had halted at 6:30 o'clock Sunday evening. Prior to that passage from one side of the river to the other was limited to boats.

The most ironic incident of the entire tragedy, once townspeople were able to look back and smile slightly, concerned the Kiwanis club.

The orgainzation spent months resurrecting a 9½-acre swamp for use as the Manatawny Playground. The dedication was set, naturally, for May 23, with state and national Kiwanis officials in attendance.

They never got there. And the tract of land reverted briefly to being swampland—ever worse than before.

THE FLOOD was not the first one in the area. In 1850, a newspaper report shows that the Schuylkill river went on a rampage, destroying bridges at "Pottstown, Douglassville, Birdsboro, Kissinger's, Althaus', Mohrsville and Hamburg."

"The freshet (flood) of the 2d and 3d of Sept., 1850, will long be remembered as the most fearful and destructive that has ever occurred in the Schuylkill," the newspaper account concluded.

Those who remember the 1942 flood would disagree.

Training Center To Be Described

Gerald Coleman, a staff member at the Philadelphia Youth Study center, will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the YMCA MORA club at 2 p. m. today.

He will show slides of the training center program which attempts to rehabilitate teenage boys and girls who are in trouble with the law.

Guests at the meeting will be the Rev. Wallace D. Flood, pastor of First Baptist church, 301 King street, and president of the Council of Social Agencies; Capt. and Mrs. C. Robert Flinn of the Salvation Army; Dr. Clarence Pentz and Clare S. Smith of the Mental Health clinic; Earl G. Carl Jr., of Family Service; Catherine Schroeder, of the YWCA; Edwin Shellenberger, of the Recreation commission; Chief Harold Hahn, of the Pottstown Police department, and Ralph H. Spare, executive secretary of the United Fund.

Wilfred S. Binder will preside at the meeting and Carrington Conger, a member of the YMCA board of directors, will introduce Coleman.

Swirling Flood Waters

It was hip boots and boats for travel 18 years ago this Sunday. Five days of rain sent the Schuylkill river flooding over its banks and inundating much of the area. Two persons died, scores were homeless and thousands of dollars worth of damage was done by the swirling water.

From left to right, top row, the pictures show the Sanatoga bridge on the road to Fricks Lock nearly awash, the level of the water in some sections of South Pottstown, and the only means of dry transportation in South Pottstown—a boat.

Second row pictures, snapped by a Mercury photographer, show rescue workers preparing to deliver food to marooned residents, a general scene of the flooded river, and the Pennsylvania Railroad station from the South Pottstown Quoit club.

Third row shows the South Hanover street bridge with the water just a few feet short of topping it, a pavilion at the Manatawny park, and a stranded car at a gas station.

Fourth row shows two officials checking the five mile an hour speed of the river, the ferrying system which took persons to evacuation sites, and two youths paddling over the bridge which stood in the center of the Manatawny park.

2 Area Artists Win at Exhibit

Paintings by two area artists captured a second and third award in a regional division of a national amateur artists exhibition at West Chester.

An oil painting executed by palette knife entitled "Mending the Nets" took a second place for Marilyn Dwyer, 319 Chestnut street. It was painted at a Jersey shore point and pictures two mariners toiling over fishing nets.

"Coventryville," a snow scene in crisp water-colors took the third spot for Mildred Sands Kratz, Pottstown RD 2. The painting shows a cluster of quaint old homes old Route 23.

The two paintings will be on exhibit through June in Chicago, where 60 selected artists from the nation will compete for national recognition. Of the 60, just six will be selected by jury, and will be purchased by an advertising firm for full color reproduction on their nationally distributed calendar.

First prize winner in the competition was a monotone watercolor "Rail Pile," and interpretation of a pile of fence railing in snow, painted by James Wyeth, Chadd's Ford, son of prominent painter Andrew Wyeth and grandson of the late N. C. Wyeth, and internationally famous artist.

Do You Remember?

Those grand old days when Pottstown and area was in its infancy—Here's another photo that may recapture a few moments of eternity for you, a picture to stir your memory and let you catch a glimpse of the past.

Fifty years ago a steed of steel appeared for the first time in Parker Ford to frighten horses, delight children and fathers, and terrify mothers. The owner of the first car in Parker Ford was J. Baldwin Custer, now of 307 Laurelwood road, Pottstown Landing. The car was a two-cylinder Maxwell and the driver in the picture is Custer. And for the youngsters of today, the handle in the front is called a crank, which Custer explained was used to start car, build up muscles, and dislocate bones.

Stock Market Volume Soars On Defense Issue Dealings

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK, (AP)—Stock market volume soared to 5,240,000 shares Wednesday — biggest since 1958—as a spree of dealings in space age defense issues marked the definite collapse of the summit conference.

The final market pattern was irregular.

Stocks representing missiles, rocket fuels and electronics soared in early dealings as Wall street anticipated a step-up in the cold war and American spending for defense.

Profits were taken late in the afternoon when Deputy Secretary of Defense James H. Douglas told senators that the breakup of the summit conference will not require any immediate major changes in the defense budget.

This triggered a wave of selling but many of the aircraft-missile-electronics stocks held substantial gains. The ticker tape ran late for the third time. The tape was late on three separate occasions, falling as much as four minutes behind transactions, and totalling two hours, 36 minutes of lateness.

The volume compared with 4,080,000 shares Tuesday and was the biggest since Oct. 17, 1958 when 5,360,000 shares changed hands.

As the ultra-modern defense stocks zoomed, recent favorites representing such leisure time activities as bowling, vending machines and photography took sharp losses. Leading steelmakers were strong early in the day and still remained ahead on balance at the close on the theory that slack inventories may now be rebuilt because of the threat of new stringencies resulting from a defense scare.

ALTHOUGH some popular market averages held gains, more issues fell than rose.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 1.37 to 623. Standard and Poor's 500-stock index eased .02 to 55.44.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose .60 to 214.90 with the industrials up 1.60, the rails down .50 and the utilities up .20.

OF 1207 issues traded, 553 declined and 415 advanced. New highs for the year totaled 56 and new lows 62.

Nine of the 15 most active stocks advanced, five declined and one was unchanged, Lear.

Thiokol, the rocket fuel stock, was the most active issue for the second straight day and continued a phenomenal resurgence which began Monday. It rose 2¼ to 48½ on 200,600 shares but at one time had a gain of 5⅝.

American stock exchange prices were irregular on volume of 1,530,000 shares compared with 1,210,000 Tuesday.

Time Will Tell Final Assessment Of Summit Tiff

PARIS (AP)—It may be months before the West can make an adequate assessment of the factors behind the explosion at the summit in Paris. And only time may tell whether East or West—if either—is a winner over the other.

Nikita Khrushchev's violent diatribe before the world's press Wednesday presented a frightening spectacle for an already jittery world.

It suggested the Soviet premier felt an urgent need to lower the cold war temperature. It suggested also that Soviet-American crises, edging to the brink of disaster and then easing off, may be expected over a long period.

There was more than a hint of a return to Stalinist foreign policy in Khrushchev'a performance. This would augur a fortress of world communism, furiously building its power and using dangerous tensions as political weapons elsewhere in the world.

Glowering down at massed representatives of the world's press, Khrushchev fired a fistful of verbal thunderbolts. He waved his arms as he poured a torrent of insults upon U.S. leaders. He grinned and grimaced and scowled menacingly, like a man given an assignment to carry out and determined to give the utmost satisfaction.

There was nothing essentially new in what Khrushchev said. But the way he said it was menacing. And all together, it strengthened the impression that he had been prodded into this unprecedented, supertruculent posture.

Those in the Kremlin doing the prodding—and the finger of suspicion points to old-line Stalinists supported by resentful army officers—apparently still do not want to turn the cold war into a hot one.

Khrushchev made it clear that whoever makes Soviet policy does not intend to let the crises develop into war. This was evident from his performance. He repeated his threats in stormy and undiplomatic language, but cautiously left the Kremlin a way out in each case. Here are some examples:

On Berlin: He said the American attitude in Paris gave urgency to the Soviet resolve to end the occupation status and make West Berlin an international city. But once again he did not set a time limit, and even indicated this might be discussed at some future summit conference.

On divided Germany: Khrushchev said he still intends to sign a peace treaty with Communist East Germany and thus end Western rights of access to West Berlin. But not now. He said the Kremlin would do it when it considers the time is ripe.

On disarmament and nuclear weapons testing, his position essentially was no different from the previous position.

It all was a matter of tone, as if Khrushchev were satisfying somebody back home of his intentions.

What the Russians have done is retain major world issues, particularly those of Berlin and Germany, as ready-made crises. These can be used whenever the Russians, for internal or other reasons, find a crisis necessary.

In the long run the results of the Paris attempt at a summit meeting are likely to hurt world Communism as a movement, just as Stalin hurt the movement a decade ago. But the Communists have the consolation that, at the same time, the Paris results can solidify the ranks of the Communist world leadership.

Three watchmen now attend the South Hanover street gate around the clock.

Although Pottstown sticks to watchman at the crossing, Royersford changed to an automatic system in 1954 and Birdsboro got its automatic gate in 1958.

The city of Lebanon has 10 automatic gates within its limits and nearly every railroad crossing within Philadelphia uses the automatic device, said the official.

Rev. John Bergstresser Performs Kishbaugh-Horter Double Ring Rites

The Rev. John B. Bergstresser officiated at the marriage of Georgia Kishbaugh and Lynn Horter in Grace Evangelical Lutheran church, Royersford.

Parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. George Kishbaugh, reside at 718 Church street, Royersford. Mr. Horter is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Gideon Horter, Palmyra, N.J.

Palms and white carnations decorated the altar for the double ring service Saturday. Organist was Mrs. Jeanne Malenke. Eric Swenson was soloist.

One hundred fifty guests attended from: Niscopeck, Philadelphia, Palmyra, N.J.; Riverton, N.J.; Burlington, N.J.; Pennsauken, N.J. and the local area.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of chantilly lace and silk. Lace scallops outlined the neckline of the moulded bodice. Sleeves tapered to a point at the wrists.

Scattered lace appliques on silk organza trimmed the front and sides of the bouffant skirt. A back panel of lace swept into a scalloped edge chapel train.

Her chapel veil of French illusion fell from a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a white Bible with a white orchid and carnations.

Mrs. Nearl Horter, Royersford, was matron of honor. Her floor length gown of silk organza over taffeta was styled with a curved neckline. A taffeta sash encircled the waist and tied in a butterfly bow at back.

In her hair, she wore a band of silk organza flowers with circular veil. White and blue carnations formed her bouquet.

Michael Tuski and Genevieve Decio Wed in Norristown Catholic Church

A wedding of area interest was performed in Holy Saviour Roman Catholic church, Norristown, when Genevieve Decio became the bride of Michael Tuski. The Rev. Buccafurni officiated at the double ring service.

The bride is a daughter of Peter Decio, Norristown, and the late Mrs. Rose Decio. Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Tuski, 547 Main street, Royersford, are parents of the bridegroom.

Francis Basile was organist for the ceremony. The church was decorated with altar bouquets of white carnations and palms. One-hundred guests attended the wedding from: Norristown, Pottstown, Princeton, N. J., Royersford and Philadelphia.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, appeared in a floor length gown of white embroidered nylon organdy. The dress was styled with an embroidered sabrina neckline, long tapered sleeves and a bouffant skirt.

Her fingertip length veil of imported illusion fell from a French orange blossom coronet. She carried a cascade of white roses centered with an orchid. Her handkerchief was a gift of Mrs. Anthony Orman, a cousin.

Patricia Orman, a cousin, attended her as maid of honor. She chose a gown of white nylon print with blue ribbons. The floor length dress was styled with short sleeves and a sabrina neckline.

A matching blue coronet served as her headpiece.

Bridesmaids were Antoinette Altieri and Florence Bono. Junior bridesmaids were Rose Orman, a cousin, and JoAnn Decio, a niece of the bride.

All attendants were gowned in blue floor length gowns of nylon. The dresses featured sabrina necklines and short sleeves. They wore matching blue coronets.

Old fashioned bouquets of white carnations and pastel shades of baby breath were carried by all attendants.

Joseph Tuski, brother of the bridegroom, performed the duties of best man. Seating the guests were Alfred DePaoli, a cousin of the bridegroom and Rico DeGuiseppe.

Mother of the bridegroom, Mrs. Tuski, received guests in a dress of blue lace with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

A reception for friends and relatives took place at the Holy Saviour hall, Norristown. When the couple left for a week long honeymoon in Florida, the bride was wearing a navy blue linen sheath with matching accessories and a white traveling coat.

Upon their return, they will reside at the home of the bridegroom's parents. The new Mrs. Tuski, a graduate of St. Patrick's High school, Norristown, is employed by Genuardi's Super market, Jeffersonville.

Mr. Tuski attended Royersford High school and is employed with the Cann and Saul Steel foundry, Royersford.

"I'm very fond of Chester," he said, "but I've gone about as far as I can go with him in development." The other three cast regulars, James Arness, Amanda Blake and Milburn Stone, are signed to appear through 1962-63.

Trojan Nine Seeks To Clinch Upper Section Title Today

Best All-Around Bears

—Mercury Sportsphoto

Pat West (second from left) and Jim Fleming (second from right) display best all-around athlete awards they received at Boyertown High All-Sports banquet Wednesday night. Looking on are girls' softball coach Marcella Wise (left) and athletic director Warren Fry. Athletes received letters in football, basketball, track, baseball, girls' hockey, softball, cross-country, tennis and golf at the fete, held in Boyertown High cafeteria. The banquet drew over 300 persons.

COATESVILLE IS TARGET IN FINALE TODAY

Phantoms, Wildcats Also Remain in Running For Crown

Pottstown High's Trojan baseballers can win the Ches-Mont league's Upper section race today, but will require a victory over Coatesville in the Red Raiders' encampment to do it.

The Trojans earned a tie for the crown last Tuesday when they turned back Conestoga, 11-1 on Bob Goodhart's three-hitter, but need a victory today to eliminate Phoenixville, the second place holder.

The Phantoms will meet West Chester, defending Lower section champ and owner of only four victories on the year.

Other league action today sends Downingtown to Boyertown and Conestoga to Bucktown for a clash with Owen J. Roberts who also has an outside chance for the Upper section diadem.

THE TROJANS will be seeking to repeat their feat of two years ago, the last time they played in Coatesville, when Jan Fritz' one-hit shutout pitching brought the charges of Carl Kolanko a 1-0 win.

Kolanko will send southpaw Eddie Wanish to the mound today, with Nick Petro, another lefty who worked in a losing cause at Phoenixville Monday, held in reserve.

The Red Raiders, who are currently leading the Lower section with a 9-2 slate, have a game remaining with Downingtown after today, but will go with either Bill Mendenhall, who has had two days' rest, or Lee Johnson. Jack Conrad is also an outside possibility.

Wanish, owner of a 3-1 hill slate, is a southpaw fireballer who is sometimes prone to wildness. This he will be seeking to curb today. Game time is 3:30.

SPRING-FORD, having completed its schedule, has been mathematically eliminated from the title race along with Boyertown, the defending league champion which holds a 3-9 log.

The Wildcats however, have games coming up today and tomorrow, and should they tie the Trojans for the Upper section crown, would probably be called on to play a third game Saturday afternoon.

On the other hand, if things end in a three-way tie, the Saturday schedule could pit the Trojans against Phoenixville, with Roberts drawing a bye.

This however, would set the playoff date back beyond Tuesday, and probably call for a three-way sudden-death playoff, with the winner meeting the Lower section champ the next day.

The Trojans however, are hoping to settle the issue once and for all today. This could prove to be a large order against the Red Raiders however, who have tasted defeat but twice this year.

Stanley Ward To Retire As Hill Athletics Head

STANLEY WARD

Brown University Graduate Served On Faculty 41 Years; Mercer To Become New Boss

Stanley A. Ward, athletic director at The Hill school for 23 years, has announced his retirement, effective at the close of the current school year.

Ward—who has been a member of The Hill faculty for 41 years—will be succeeded by David H. Mercer, current director of physical education, who will be assisted by Richard O'Shaughnessy.

Actually Ward retired unofficially after the 1958-59 term, but remained on the job in an advisory capacity and as head of the Far Fields program.

A 1917 graduate of Brown university, Ward came to The Hill in 1919 as assistant football coach under Michael Sweeney, and served as head grid coach from 1921 through 1926 and again from 1931 through 1934.

WARD IS credited with the current high standard of the Hill athletic program. He introduced basketball as a varsity sport in 1921, and served as coach through 1923.

The cage sport — as introduced by Ward—was the first Winter varsity sport at The Hill. After it came hockey, swimming, wrestling, Winter track and squash, the latest addition.

During his stay Ward has also seen numerous improvements in facilities, such as the Sweeney gymnasium, which was dedicated in 1932, Cunningham pool, added in 1949, the in 1956, the hockey rink and wrestling room which came the Butcher squash courts, which came in 1958.

He became assistant director of physical education in 1923, but it wasn't until 1937, when he became athletic director, that his long-range program became a reality.

IT BEGAN in 1938 with the introduction of the Far Fields program, which he still heads. It replaced a former intramural system which was deemed unsatisfactory.

The current system of Thirds, Fourths, Fifths and Sixths was developed after several years of study, and the current system, which encompasses a schedule of six games with "outside" opposition was formed through a donation from the Sixth Form (Senior class).

The system was so successful in its trial year that funds were appropriated for

Bears End Best Season

Ursinus Thinclads Take Lebanon Valley, 90½-35½

Five school marks fell by the wayside as Ursinus college's thinclads completed the most successful track season in the school's long history Wednesday at Collegeville.

The Bears' 90½-35½ win over visiting Lebanon Valley lifted the campaign mark to 4-4 in dual competition. The .500 average represents the best percentage since the inception of the speed and strength sport at Ursinus in 1928.

The redoubtable Vern Morgan paced Ray Gruzynski's squad to its history-making triumph. Morgan grabbed three firsts and a second, smashing one old mark in the process.

He broke his own 9:53.5 mark, set May 10 against Washington college with a 9:44.5 effort in the two-mile test after registering firsts in the 880-yard and one-mile events. Morgan's second came in the 440, won by Ursinus captain Cal Fox.

DENNIS GOULD and Hank Freeland were double victors for the Bears with Gould also establishing a new time.

He clipped 3/10 of a second off Harry Donnelly's 1956 high in the 120-high hurdles with a 16.3 time and annexed the 220-low hurdles. Freeland's firsts came in the 100 and 220-yard dashes.

The remaining new records were set in field activity, Dick Woodruff broad jumped 21-2¾ for the Bears to eclipse Dick Dickerson's 19-11½ figure set in '56 and Al Walton bested his own 1958 distance in the discus. Walton's new mark reads 139-4, two feet four inches better than his original setting.

Lebanon Valley got into the record-cracking picture when Fred Meisselman posted a 45-11 in the shot put event to strike out Henry Ruth's 43-9½ toss in '56.

Norristown Ace Top Speaker at Pottstown Fete

Josh Culbreath used himself of an example of what can be accomplished by determination and willingness to work among athletes.

Speaking at the Pottstown High Spring sports banquet Wednesday night, the Norristown schoolteacher and Olympic athelete said:

"God has endowed us with so much physical and mental ability, and the rest is up to us. If we are willing to work, we will indeed go far."

Culbreath cited his own cause because of his stature (he stands 5-7) saying, " I realize that being small, I have to work just that much harder than the taller athletes.

"What I lack in size, I have to make up in endurance," said Culbreath, whose diminutive physique attracts comment wherever he competes..

"THE FORMULA can also be adapted to whatever sport you compete in," said Culbreath, who has already qualified to compete for a berth on the 1960 U.S. squad.

The three-time Penn relays 400-meter hurdles champion concluded his talk to the more than 125 persons present by showing color slides taken during his travels to Olympic games sites and on State department-sponsored tours.

Culbreath said his own chances in the 1960 Olympic games at Rome will depend on the condition of his feet, which were recently discovered to contain an extra bone each.

Three athletes received "Outstanding" awards from the Junior chamber of commerce. They were Bob DeLong, for golf, Pat Faison, girls softball and Jim Foster for track.

The awards were presented by Cy Ecker, newly-elected president of the jaycees.

Furillo Thumbs Down Release, Threatens Suit

NEW YORK, (AP) — The New York Post, in a telephone interview with Carl Furillo, learned Wednesday the veteran outfielder has refused to accept his release from the Los Angeles Dodgers and is considering suing the club for his full year's salary.

Furillo told Milton Gross, Post columnist, that on the advice of his lawyer, he has refused to accept the 30-day severance pay due him under the terms of the contract he signed last January.

Instead of paying the customary $1 for his release, he handed Dodger general manager Buzzie Bavasi a letter which stated in legal form that his right leg was injured in performance of his duties as a Dodger.

Furillo told Gross a player cannot be released if he has not recovered from such an injury and the lawyer will so advise Commissioner Ford Frick.

"UNTIL THE other day," Furillo told Gross, "I didn't know that if you're injured you've got to notify the club through a letter. Almost 15 years with the team and I just learn that. But what the hell? For all that time I never saw a duplicate of the contract I'd signed."

Furillo, who starred on seven Dodger pennant winners and delivered the key hit in the Dodgers' pennant playoff with Milwaukee last year, gave the following advice to youngsters aspiring to become major leaguers?

"Insist upon having a duplicate of your contract. Read it throughly, especially the fine print that the ball players never read."

"Players never learn until it's too late," he said. "A week ago Monday, through sheer instinct, I decided to ask for a copy of the conditions under which I was employed. Bavasi didn't mention anything about a release or being disabled then.

"But as long as last Spring training I got the feeling that I wanted to see the contract. 'Just one time,' I told him. 'Just one time, I'd love to see a duplicate.' I had to coax it out of him."

Valley Forge Diamonders Defeat Hill School, 6-4

Valley Forge Military academy, behind sterling mound work by Bob Fleming, dealt The Hill a 6-4 loss Wednesday at the Blue diamond.

Fleming limited The Hill to a stingy total of three singles. He gave up just two bases-on-balls and relied on the strike-out pitch to help apply his coat of whitewash.

Nine batters went down on strikes as the Blue stickers absorbed their sixth setback of the year. They have four wins.

Valley Forge, meanwhile, hopped on three pitchers for nine hits in scoring once in the first, three times in the third and once more in the sixth.

RIGHTHANDER BRUCE BAKER, The Hill starter and official loser, was doomed to defeat in the very first inning when Frank DeBlase singled and rode home on John Sherlock's one-bagger to right.

Four more singles and a Hill error accounted for an additional three runs off Baker in the third.

Valley Forge scored its fifth run off Bill Mellick, who relieved Baker in the fifth. Hal Smedley singled and Mellick issued three consecutive passes to usher in the tally.

Nicholson Recalled By Baltimore Club

BALTIMORE, (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles announced Wednesday that bonus player Dave Nicholson, who received an estimated $115,000 when he was signed in 1958, has been recalled from Miami of the International league.

To make room for the 20-year-old power hitting outfielder, the Orioles sold veteran pitcher Rip Coleman outright to Miami.

TYSON HURLS NO-HITTER AS COLONELS WIN

Jenkintown Beaten, 5-0, Error Mars Perfect Game Try

Righthander Bob Tyson covered himself with glory Wednesday by allowing Jenkintown no hits and no runs as his Collegeville-Trappe teammates used nine hits for a 5-0 Inter-County league win over the Drakes at Trappe.

Tyson, a Junior, missed "perfect game" status by the narrow margin of a single Drake baserunner.

With two away in the second, Lou Nicholson reached when Colonel centerfielder Jim Campion was unable to hold his long drive after catching up to it. The ball bounced off Campion's glove and the play went into the books as an error.

Tyson retired the next 16 men in order to preserve his masterpiece. His letter-perfect control permitted no free passes and led directly to his eight-strikeout total.

THE COLONEL offense, meanwhile, gave Tyson a two-run working margin in the second and managed single markers in the fourth, fifth and sixth off Drake righthander John Harrar.

Jackie Hefelfinger's triple, a Walt Korenkiewicz single, plus a base-on-balls and an infield out produced the opening runs.

Bob Nester drove in Hefelfinger, who had doubled, in the fourth and Campion and Dale Robinson manufactured the fifth inning run with a pair of singles.

Korenkiewicz scored the last Colonel tally on Nester's second one-bagger.

The win handed the Colonels a 6-3 league mark.

Baltimore Climbs to Second Place As Brandt Homer Sinks Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Jackie Brandt, who seems to specialize in hitting home runs against Kansas City, hit a game-clincher Wednesday night that gave the Baltimore Orioles a 5-4 victory over the Athletics.

Brandt's solo blast came in the ninth inning off Leo Kiely with the score tied 4-4. The blow elevated the Orioles to second place in the American League, displacing the Cleveland Indians who lost to New York and dealt Kiely his first defeat. He had won Tuesday night's battle with the Orioles in relief.

The game, which started out as a pitching duel between knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm of the Orioles and Ray Herbert, Kansas City right-hander, developed into a contest between relief hurlers in the sixth inning.

Wilhelm retired after torturing the athletic hitters and his own catcher Joe Ginsberg, through five innings. The A's scored three runs off Wilhelm mainly through Ginsberg's inability to catch the fluttering knuckler. Three passed balls aided the A's offense and only one of the three runs were earned.

Steve Barber succeeded Wilhelm and pitched effectively in recording his third triumph against one defeat.

The Orioles ousted Herbert with two out in the seventh when they tied the score at 4-all. Marv Breeding led off the inning with a double and after Albie Pearson fouled out, Brandt walked and Gene Woodling doubled to score both runners. Kiely then came on and struck out Jim Gentile and got Ronnie Hansen to ground out.

Cincinnati Nips Los Angeles On Bailey's Single

CINCINNATI (AP)—Ed Bailey's single, coming after reliever Danny McDevitt had walked one batter and hit another, drove in the winning run Wednesday night as the Cincinnati Reds edged the Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-4, in 12 innings.

McDevitt, who relieved Stan Williams in the ninth, had walked Frank Robinson and hit Jerry Lynch before Bailey's blow.

Robinson's double and Bailey's sacrifice fly helped the Reds tie the game in the eighth and Robby's seventh home run enabled Cincinnati to tie it again in the last of the 10th.

Bill Henry got the victory although Jay Hook went 11 innings, allowing 10 hits and struck out 10.

Redlegs Buy Bob Grim, Ship Raul Sanchez Out

CINCINNATI, (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds Wednesday bought the contract of veteran pitcher Bob Grim from Cleveland, and sent pitcher Raul Sanchez to Havana of the International league.

Grim, 30, was at his best in 1954 when he won 20 games and lost 6 while pitching for the New York Yankees. He went to Kansas City in 1958, and then was obtained by Cleveland this year.

A righthander, Grim has pitched 2⅓ innings in 3 games this season, losing one and winning none.

Sanchez hit three successive Philadelphia batters last Sunday, and one of the biggest and longest fights among players in a long time developed.

Milwaukee Stifles San Francisco, 3-1

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves dropped San Francisco into a first place tie with the Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday night as veteran Bob Rush stopped the Giants in relief and scored the decisive run with a crashing football block in a 3-1 victory.

The loss left the Giants with a 20-10 record, which Pittsburgh matched by defeating St. Louis 2-4. Milwaukee is in third place, four games behind.

Rush, who had pitched only 3 2-3 innings previously this year, stopped San Francisco on one run and nine hits after taking over for starter Carl Willey at the top of the third. However, he had to be bailed out when the Giants loaded the bases with two out in the ninth. Don McMahon came on and got Willie McCovey on a soft fly to center.

The Braves dealt southpaw Mike McCormick his first loss after five straight triumphs by pushing across runs in the seventh and eighth.

Rush, a lumbering 6-4, 210-pounder, launched the tie-breaking seventh by grounding a single to center and moving around to third on a double to right by Billy Bruton.

Red Schoendienst hoisted a fly to right, 300 feet from the plate and the Braves elected to gamble despite Rush's known slowness afoot.

Willy Kirkland uncorked a perfect throw to the plate and Rush appeared dead. However, the big right-hander crashed into Hobie Landrith, forcing the San Francisco catcher to drop the ball for an error.

Milwaukee added its third run in the eighth on singles by Joe Adcock, Johnny Logan and Del Crandall.

McCormick was nicked for the first run when he surrendered a walk to Hank Aaron and Adcock pulled a double to deep center in the second.

The Giants managed to break through Rush in the third when McCormick doubled over Aaron's head in right, went to third on Jim Davenport's single to right and scored on a sacrifice fly.

Willey was forced to retire at the end of the second because of a severe right thigh bruise suffered when hit by a line drive off the bat of Orlando Cepeda.

Hill JV Golfers Top Pottstown High 5½-½

The Hill school's jayvee golf team took the measure of Pottstown High's shotmakers, 5½-½, in a nine-hole match Wednesday at Brookside country club.

Pottstown's number-one man Bob DeLong fired a 41 to earn a draw with Bill Fryberger in the first match. But The Hill swingers captured the remaining five tests.

Baron Holmes put the Blue out front with a 3 & 2 win over Al Butler and Fred Miller opened the point gap by besting Phil Welch, 4 & 3.

Dick Ripple tripped Harris Leventhal, 4 & 2, and Lance Nesbitt gained a similar 4 & 2 win over Bob Kovach.

Steve Keim completed the victory by halting Gary Hander, 4 & 3.

PERKIOMEN HARRIERS WIN

Lowe's 3 Firsts Head 70-46 Conquest Of Cadets

Speedy Dean Lowe led Perkiomen Prep to a 70-46 track win over Valley Forge Military academy Wednesday at Pennsburg.

Lowe contributed 17 points to the Preps' winning total with three firsts in the running events and a third in the high jump.

He captured both the 120-yard low and high hurdle tests and posted his third first with a 10 second effort in the 100-yard dash.

The Preps swept the seven-event running card but could net but one first in six field events. Tom Galbraith picked up the lone win in the javelin.

Norm Bate captured the mile run and Phil Girvin was home first in the 440. Bill Cowperthwail took the 880 and Jere Stauffer annexed the 220.

For Valley Forge, Jack Manning fronted the high jump competition, Mel Heininger won the shot put event, Jim Myers was high in the pole vault, Bill George copped the discus and Greg Pownall was the broad jump winner.

Perkiomen now holds a 2-1 card in dual competition.

Chisox Shade Bosox On Minoso Hit, 6-5

CHICAGO (AP)—A four-run uprising in the fifth inning, capped by Minnie Minoso's two-run double and another brilliant job of relief pitching by Gerry Staley, lifted the Chicago White Sox to a 6-5 victory over Boston Wednesday night.

The triumph was the eighth at home without defeat for the league-leading White Sox. Staley pitched one-hit ball in the last four innings and was credited with his fourth success in five decisions.

Trailing 4-1 going into the fifth inning, Chicago drove starter Frank Sullivan from the mound and tagged the big right-hander with his third loss against one triumph.

With one out in the fifth, Jim Landis doubled and scored on Sammy Esposito's single. Pinch-batter Earl Torgeson drew a pass and Luis Aparicio sent Esposito home with a line single to left. After Nellie Fox had forced Aparicio, Minoso doubled to left center for two more runs.

Chicago added an insurance run in the sixth inning on a single by Al Smith, two walks and a sacrifice fly by Staley.

Two of Boston's runs were forced in on walks, another counted on a wild pitch by reliever Russ Kemmerer who was purchased earlier in the day from Washington.

Chicago scored a run in the first inning on a triple by Aparicio and an infield out by Nelson Fox. But Boston took the lead with three runs in the second and knocked starter Billy Pierce out of the box.

Rookie Lou Clinton opened with a double. Don Buddin beat out an infield hit and Haywood Sullivan singled home Clinton. Frank Sullivan sacrificed the runners along. After Pumpsie Green flied out, Pierce walked Pete Runnels and Frank Malzone to force in a run. Reliever Ray Moore walked Rip Repulski to force in another before Bobby Thomson bounced into a force play.

Clinton again doubled down the third base line to open the fifth, moved to third on a sacrifice bunt and scored on a wild pitch.

Boston's final run came in the ninth when Repulski doubled, took third unmolested and came in on Ted Williams' pinch sacrifice fly.

Yanks Shade Tribe, 4-2 On 3-Run McDougald HR

CLEVELAND (AP) — A three-run homer by Gil McDougald led the New York Yankees to a 4-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians Wednesday night and a split in the two-game series. The triumph was the first for the Yankees in four games with the Indians this season.

The winner was Ralph Terry, a 24-year-old right-hander who was beaten by the Indians in a 10-inning battle in New York last Tuesday. It was his second victory in three decisions. He gave up eight hits in going the distance, but kept them scattered except in the first inning, when the Indians scored their first run on three hits. He finished strong, striking out two batters in the ninth inning.

Rookie Wynn Hawkins, another 24-year-old right-hander, was the loser, giving him a 3-3 record. He was lifted in the home half of the fifth inning for a pinch-hitter and Johnny Klippstein and Jim Perry finished up.

PREPS DEALT 8-0 SHUTOUT BY MULE UNIT

Rain Erases Perkiomen Rally in 7th Inning

The rains came in the bottom of the seventh inning Wednesday, nipping a budding Perkiomen Prep rally in the bud and giving Muhlenberg college's Freshmen an 8-0 victory at Pennsburg.

The Preps had sent four runners across the dish in the seventh, and with one out, had the bases loaded when the downpour arrived.

As a result, the score reverted to the sixth inning, giving a tiring Bruce Biedleman a three-hit shutout victory.

The Preps were tagged with their eighth loss in nine starts, as the Mule yearlings tagged Bob Itts for three runs in the top of the first inning and chased him in the fourth with five more.

THE FIRST four batters in the game reached base safely off Itts before he retired a batter.

John Rhoades singled, Jim Risley and Bob Cooperman walked, and Mike Heller singled two runs home. Cooperman scored on Clay Phillips' fielder's choice.

The Mules put together three singles and doubles by Cooperman and Biedleman for their five fourth inning runs.

Until the seventh Biedleman had the Preps in the palm of his hand, but John Avery and Tom Davis reached on a walk and single respectively.

When Ray Mueller, a replacement for John Gottschall in left field, walked to load the bases, the Preps had a rally growing.

Ed Moffat and Neal Buckley each singled two runs home and Wally MacPhearson was at the plate when the rain came.

Art Plas Debuts In Midget Event On Reading Oval

READING — Hard-riding Art Plas, whose last appearance here saw him fly through the air, will make his midget debut at Reading, Sunday afternoon in the ARDC-USAC program to be highlighted by the 30-lap Berks County sweepstakes.

Plas, who flipped in a sprint car here last month, is scheduled to be in the Charley Sacks Offy as he battles such stars as Len Duncan, Bill Randall, Bobby Marshman, Red Riegel, Tony Romit, Bert Brooks, Dutch Schaeffer, Gig Stephens, Ernie McCoy, Johnny Coy and a host of others.

Race Producer Dick Heist has lined up a terrific field for the program which gets under way with warmups at 1:30 o'clock. The racing menu includes three heats, a consolation, a match race and the big Sweepstakes.

Plas, of Elyria, Ohio, has indicated a liking for the Reading track in his sprint appearances and he has shown a preference for the outside where he can sail along.

WITH THE new clay surface recently put down at the Fairgrounds. Plas should be able to quicken his tempo.

Sunday's program will mark the second appearance of midgets in Reading in the past five years.

Brooks, of New Britain, Conn., won that main event while McCoy and Stephens have already chalked up midget wins this season.

McCoy took the feature at Hatfield and Stephens got home first at Williams Grove last Sunday.

The program was originally set for May 1 but rain caused postponement at that time.

Lemon, Pascual Lead Solons' 3-0 Win Over Tigers

DETROIT (AP)—The Washington Senators combined the air-tight pitching of Camilo Pascual and the home run bat of big Jim Lemon for a 3-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers in 11-innings Wednesday.

Pascual, who now has 26 consecutive scoreless innings, allowed the Tigers only five hits, two of them in the bottom of the 11th.

The Senators, who got only one run while losing their first three games to the Tigers, finally broke the game wide open after Detroit starter Jim Bunning was lifted for a pinch hitter as Detroit tried unsuccessfully to push over a run in the bottom of the 10th.

The Pascual-Bunning duel was a beauty for 10 innings, but the Senators wasted little time in getting to Tiger reliever Dave Sisler. He walked Bob Allison to lead off the inning, and Lemon blasted a 3-2 pitch into the left field stands for homer No. 9 to bolster his American League lead.

Sisler departed and Ray Semproch finished up the inning, allowing one more run on a walk and two singles.

The Tigers started a minor rally in the 11th, but Pascual quickly ended it and protected his shutout.

Law Hurls Bucs To 4-2 Triumph Over St. Louis

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates whipped the St. Louis Cardinals 4-2 Wednesday night and moved into a tie with San Francisco for first place in the National League.

The Pirate victory behind the steady pitching of Vernon Law coupled with the Giants' 3-1 loss to Milwaukee boosted the Pirates into the deadlock for first.

The red-hot Pirates have won seven of their last eight games, while St. Louis has dropped 12 of 14 road games.

Law, who now has a 6-1 record, gave up nine hits, all singles. He gave up only four hits over the first seven innings. He walked only one and fanned four.

The loss was charged to the Cards' starter, Ronnie Kline, a former Pirate, who is now 1-3.

The Pirates got two runs in the first. Don Hoak singled and came home on Bob Skinner's triple for one run. Dick Stuart's high bounder to the mound scored Skinner with the other.

Law pitched fine ball until the late innings. Stan Musial and Leon Wagner got consecutive singles with none out in the eighth.

Ward Announces Retirement From Hill Sports Post

its perpetuation.

It was during this period that soccer was introduced, and with the coming of tennis and golf, became a major sport.

AMONG THE offices Ward has held at The Hill were two tenures as a member of the disciplinary committee, (1925-26 and 1930-31), Assistant Sixth Form adviser (1925-26) and faculty manager of athletics (1933-36.)

His career was twice interrupted by tours in the Armed Forces. He served with the 103d Regiment, 26th "Yankee" division, field artillery, during World War I, attaining the rank of first lieutenant.

He also served with the Marine corps during World War II, attaining the rank of major.

His most recent project has been the relocation of the baseball diamond and soccer field, separating the two from the track.

HE LEAVES with one problem, the reconstruction of the Dell football field, incomplete, but it too is currently in the planning stage.

Lawrenceville school, archrival of The Hill in athletics, recently presented Ward with an award in "appreciation and recognition of the long years of relations between the two schools."

He declined a retirement dinner in his honor, but will be presented with a gift from the members of his athletic staff.

A former footballer at Brown—he played in the 1916 Rose bowl game—his buildup of the excellent athletic standards The Hill now enjoys, is credited with the high degree of desire and school spirit Hill teams enjoy.

His motto over the years hasn't changed. "If the standards are high," he says, "a boy will always reach for them."

Detwiler, Brack Face Hard Tests In All-Star Vets

Two former Bell Racing club drivers will be mixing it up in faster company when stock car racing returns to Hatfield speedway Saturday evening.

Ralph Detwiler, Line Lexington, who led the Bell club's strictly stock division in 1959 with 543 points, has souped up his familiar No. 11 racer to compete in the All-Star Racing Club's modified stock car class.

Detwiler, a construction worker, was running like a bomb in last Saturday's preliminaries before rain washed out the weekly racing installment.

Another ex-Bell club driver who has shifted to the fast-running modifieds is Bobby Brack, Quakertown, twelfth in point standings in 1959.

DETWILER AND Brack will have their work cut out for them when they take to Hatfield's third-mile clay against veterans Dick Havens, Tommy McAndrews, Mose and Harry Moore, Tommy Sheetz, Eddy Horn, Bill Brown, Rocky Ewing, Jack Rudy and others.

Director George Marshman anticipates a field of upwards of 50 cars for his weekly doubleheader. Total membership in the two racing clubs, Bell and All-Star, numbers more than 75.

The first event will start at 8 o'clock.

Yanks Release Valo

CLEVELAND, (AP)—The New York Yankees Wednesday night gave veteran outfielder Elmer Valo his unconditional release.

Valo, 40, has spent 19 years in the majors. He was 0-for-5 as a pinch-hitter with the Yankees, who signed him last December after his release by Cleveland.

Chisox Buy Kemmerer For Undisclosed Sum

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox Wednesday obtained Russ Kemmerer, a right-handed pitcher, from the Washington Senators.

The announcement said Kemmerer's contract was purchased for an undisclosed sum.

It's News to Solly

Hemus in the Dark Over Ouster Rumor

PITTSBURGH, (AP)—Solly Hemus said Wednesday he knew nothing about a report he might be ousted as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Commenting on a story by Bob Broeg, sports editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch that Hemus might be replaced by either Leo Durocher or Johnny Keane, presently a Redbird coach, Hemus said:

"It's news to me. Nobody connected with the organization has said a word to me about such a possibility."

Cards' owner August A. Busch in St. Louis quickly came to Solly's defense, declaring rumors Hemus is on the way out are "absolutely not true." Busch said Hemus has done "a wonderful job under the circumstances."

IN EXPLAINING why Hemus, now in his second year at the Cardinal helm, might be ousted, Broeg wrote:

"X X X Hemus may have fallen victim, in part, to his own over-optimism.

"A hustling, all-out, self-made player, Solly apparently hasn't been able to see himself as a manager, but unfortunately he has oversold his ball club to his bosses and to the public. They came to expect too much."

The Cards, winners of only 2 of 16 road games, own an 11-17 record and are in sixth place.

HEMUS DENIED that he oversold the club.

"I said the Cardinals were capable of finishing in the first division," he said, "and I still think they will.

"I also said any club that is capable of finishing in the first division, can go all the way provided it gets the breaks. That's what happened to the Dodgers last year. They got all the breaks after the All-Star game and they won the pennant.

"I think there was good reason to be optimistic. We added power in fellows like Daryl Spencer, Leon Wagner, Carl Sawatski and Bob Nieman and our pitching was strengthened by the addition of Ronnie Kline and development of Bob Miller. I also felt, and still do, that fellows like Ernie Broglio, Bob Duliba and Marshall Bridges should be better with a year's experience in the big leagues.

"I'm not alibiing but we'd be playing .500 ball, or perhaps better, if Miller hadn't come up with a sore arm. Bob was fast developing into our No. 1 or No. 2 pitcher. Had he been able to pitch, I would not have had to use Lindy McDaniel as a starter.

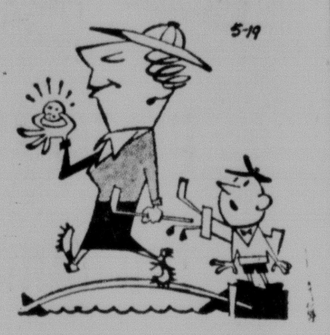
THE OLD HOME TOWN by STANLEY

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A COUPLE OF female golfers had taken two hours to play seven holes, and their caddy—not to mention the male foursome behind them—was on the verge of an apoplectic fit. The eigth was a 3-par water hole. One woman dribbled her ball down the hill to the foot of the pond (it was forty yards across) and asked the caddy, "What club should I use?"



"That's the green right over the pond," said the caddy. "A number nine should get you there."

The lady didn't think too much of this suggestion. First she pulled a number seven iron out of her bag, then a spoon—and then she finally made up her mind.

"You know what I'm going to do?" she announced. "I'm going to carry my ball across." And she did.
